Plane, 39 Missing

LA PAZ (UPI)—A Bolivian airliner carrying 39 persons including two Americans disappeared Friday on a flight from Chile to La Paz, according to airline officials here.

They said the Lloyd Aereo Boliviano DC-6 took off from Arica, near Chile's northern border, and should have completed the 600-mile hop to Bolivia's capital by 12:27 p.m. local time. It was still missing seven hours later.

Officials here said Arica's control tower reported the DC-6 made a perfect takeoff. Its flight plan included crossing the Andes at 19,000 feet.

A Panagra Airlines plane reported sighting the DC-6 heading due west, toward the Pacific Ocean, instead of on the generally northeastern course that would have taken it to La Paz, officials said.

33 Escape

Iran Crash Kills Four

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI)—A Trans Mediterranean Airways freighter bound for Beirut from Tehran crashed Friday seven miles southeast of Karaj and all four crewmen were killed.

Authorities said the plane took off from Tehran airport but immediately lost radio contact with the airport tower. Karaj is 24 miles west of Tehran.

Agents Charged For Kidnap Bid

BERN, Switzerland (AP)—The Swiss government said Friday two Israeli agents have been arrested by Swiss police for trying to kidnap a West German missile scientist working for the United Arab Republic.

A government announcement described the agents as an Austrian and an Israeli citizen, but did not otherwise identify them.

STEERING SYSTEMS
Informed sources said the case was connected with an attempt to kidnap Dr. Hans Kleinwachter, a West German scientist conducting research on electronic steering systems for missiles on behalf of the United Arab Republic's defense ministry.

Noisy Guests 'Shut Up'

ALICE SPRINGS, Australia (Reuters)—Chattering guests at a luncheon here Friday for touring Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip were shocked into silence by a shout of "shut up."

The man who shouted, Col. Lionel Rose explained, "I felt something had to be done to stop the mob from drinking and talking."

The guests had ignored an official who rose to propose a toast to the Queen. Rose said the Queen's private secretary, Sir Michael Adeane, turned to him after he shouted and said "good on you old boy"—a typically Australian expression.

Alberni Chieftains in Final

VANCOUVER — Alberni Chieftains will play Mennonite Educational Institute of Clearbrook Saturday night for the B.C. high school basketball championship.

Chieftains reached the final last night by defeating North Surrey,

60-47, while MEL outscored Queen Elizabeth of Surrey, 62-50. Courtney Towhees advanced to the final of the consolation round by defeating Nanaimo Hubsters, 48-42, and will play Vancouver College for fourth place. (See story, Page 8.)

Three Injured

Three persons were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital last night after a car was in a head-on collision with a line-laden truck on Malahat. Arnold Mason, Shawinigan Lake, lone occupant of car, was reported in fair condition with a number of fractures and cuts. Mr. and Mrs. George Hensworth, Boynton, were both in good condition in hospital. (Bud Kinman.)

Pearson Pushes Pension Plan

BARRIE, Ont. (CP)—A new contributory pension plan has top priority in the Liberal party's April 8 election platform. Liberal Leader Pearson said Friday night.

"It has this priority because it is necessary and desirable in itself and because it involves no added drain on the revenues of the federal government," he said.

It would be added to the existing old age pension which he said the Liberals had introduced in 1951.

Further, workers should be able to retain rights on their contributions when they change jobs, he said.

Mr. Pearson spoke to a crowd of about 900 in the school auditorium.

Mr. Pearson said he didn't think the Progressive Conservatives from Prime Minister Diefenbaker on down were inviting the kind of searching public inquiry necessary at this time. They preferred "emotion, smoke-screens, excitement and drama."

Truth Squad On Way Out?

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says the Liberal party's "truth squad" will disappear, probably this weekend, under orders of national leader Lester Pearson.

HALIFAX (CP)—The Liberal party's "truth squad" asked for and received police protection at a Progressive Conservative rally addressed by Prime Minister Diefenbaker here Friday night.

Socreds Issue Two Statements

OTTAWA (CP)—The Social Credit Association of Canada has issued two separate policy statements on nuclear weapons.

One was issued Feb. 14 in Ottawa and Montreal in both French and English; the other in Edmonton about two weeks ago.

A party spokesman said Friday the statements are identical except for one sentence which appears only in the one issued at Edmonton.

Both versions say Social Credit "pledges that upon election, it will immediately appoint a non-partisan parliamentary defence committee to recommend defence policies in light of secret security information, military requirements and international developments."

The Edmonton statement adds: "A Social Credit government would approve the adoption of defensive nuclear weapons found to be necessary for the defence of Canada and in conjunction with her allies in the defence of the Western world."

The spokesman said he had no idea why the sentence was added to the Edmonton statement or who had authorized it.

He said copies of the Edmonton statement had been shipped to Ottawa for distribution.

Former Vancouver police chief George Archer hinted at a Lions Club luncheon yesterday he has some searching disclosures to make at the end of his investigation of the Victoria police department and implementation of his recommendations will cost money.

Mr. Archer suggested jokingly he might take off on a world tour when the investigation was over.

"I have all the exit routes marked out," he said.

ONE TENTH OF BUDGET

"Police forces cost a lot of money," he said, pointing out the Vancouver force used up one-tenth of the annual civic budget.

"You are looking at the man who spent $5,000,000 a year for six years and didn't leave the country," he said.

Mr. Archer said Victoria has the beginning of a successful police force.

THREE ESSENTIALS

"There are three essentials," he said. "Communications, transportation and manpower in that order."

He said good direction was also necessary and "even some inspiration" is needed.

Other observations made by the former RCMP official were:

• "Some of the nicest youngsters I've met are members of the Victoria police department."

• "Gripes go with police work."

• "You get what you deserve" in police protection.

• "A man out on the beat is out of touch. He costs the taxpayer $6,500 a year."

• "Policeman in a good automobile, with training and good communications to keep in touch with headquarters and other beats is a small, self-contained police force all by himself."

• "Juvenile crime is a real problem."

• "I don't agree that a person under 18 is someone who doesn't know his way around. Observe certain parts of your city on a Friday or Saturday night."

• "Let social workers do their work and police do theirs. Police are not social workers and social workers are not policemen."

• "The patrol wagon in Victoria hauls the halt, the lame and the wounded. While a policeman is doing this, he's not protecting you."

When asked if he favored legalization of drugs as an answer to cutting down on crime associated with narcotics, Mr. Archer said, "Let's try it."

Union Arab Choice

CAIRO (AP)—President Nasser of the United Arab Republic and envoys from Iraq and Syria agreed Friday night after hours of negotiation to form a united three-power Arab nation, a reliable source reported.

The new union would amount to a federation of the three Arab states, with each retaining its identity but under some form of central government with one chief executive.

Action Taken

The George Archer report on present accommodations of the Victoria police department along with recommendations for improvement now are in the hands of the deputy attorney-general, Mr. Archer told The Daily Colonist last night.

He said he would interview (ask) Ray and Esquimaux policemen, discuss jurisdictional areas with the RCMP, interview Saanich police chief W. A. Pearson and inspect facilities at the Saanich police station, winding up his investigation on schedule about April 18.

Charge!

Another U.S. invasion of Cuba is only solution to Castro, says William Martin, 85, Negro U.S.-born veteran of Teddy Roosevelt's charge up San Juan Hill. He reached Miami Friday from Cuba in latest refugee group. (AP Photofax.)

Van Allen Admits:

Man-Made Killer Fouls Up Space

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. James Van Allen conceded Friday the artificial radiation belt created by last summer's high-altitude U.S. nuclear test is going to last longer and cause more trouble than he anticipated.

Dr. Van Allen, discoverer of the natural radiation belts which bear his name, thus reversed his field in his running argument with some government scientists about the effects of the blast high over the Pacific.

He said that—in contrast to his earlier estimates of about a year—he now expects the artificial belt to last about 10 years and hopelessly foul up for at least that long experiments aimed at learning the secrets of the Van Allen belts.

But he added he feels the man-made radiation also will constitute a continuing menace to manned flights through the areas of space it occupies.

New Threats Add To French Chaos

PARIS (Reuters)—A 24-hour rail strike Friday threw France's communications into chaos, adding to the massive labor troubles facing the government—and there was a threat of more work stoppages.

The new threat came as the Communist and Catholic unions joined to call on their members in the country's postal system for a series of 24-hour strikes by sectors.

The postmen have been told to stop work on Thursday, post office technical workers Friday and financial section staff Saturday.

The Socialist-led union, the third of the major groupings, did not call for the postal strike which is in support of hours and wage demands.

The railroad strike, which began at 4 a.m., affected some 350,000 workers, bringing the number of strikers throughout the country to more than 600,000.

Confident Student Has Walkathon Won

By JURGEN HESSE

A Victoria High School student says he is bound to win the March 30 Colonist 40-mile Walkathon.

Alan Valiant made this self-assured statement after he watched 100 Victoria High School students set out in a five-mile walk which says, 68 finish within the 1½-hour limit, in the interhouse walkathon yesterday.

The 20-year-old student has only walked for five days but already he is near the record established in 1910 for the five-mile walking competition—35 minutes, 37.4 seconds—when he walked 4½ miles in 34 minutes and 55 seconds.

"I won't be able to maintain that pace," he told the Colonist, "and I figure the 50 miles cannot be walked in under 10 hours and 35 minutes."

Second Lieut. Ralph Gustafson of 15th Medium B.C. Artillery Battery announced last night he will start out at 2 a.m. today on his second Colonist Walkathon 50-mile training march 10 miles north of Duncan.

"Last time I walked a mile and ran a mile," he said. "This time I will walk only and hope to do it in 13 hours."

The 18-year-old 2nd Lt. will be accompanied by David Smith, 22, a civilian employee at HMCS Naden.

The inter-house walkathon over one-tenth of the Colonist Walkathon distance of 50 miles saw only 68 students finish out of the original 100.

First across the finish line was John Phillips, with just under one hour's time, followed within 20 yards by Eileen McComan. Third was Wayne LeMasurier.

The five-mile Victoria High School walkathon was won by

House 1 with 20 walkers, followed by House 4 with 18, and House 2 and 3 who tied with 13 walkers each.

Why did the students try for a school-sponsored walkathon?

"A delegation of students approached me three weeks ago and proposed a 50-mile walkathon to see whether they would be fit to compete in the Colonist Walkathon March 30," said Victoria High School teacher Gordon Hartley who doubles as coach and director of extra-curricular activities at the school.

"But we set our walkathon at five miles. Even then, 32 had to drop out. This points out that preparation for the 50-mile event is necessary."

Mr. Hartley added:

"I feel this interest in walking is a very fine thing. If it is carried out sensibly and over a long period of time, it can only result in a benefit for the participant," he added.

Alan Valiant, who has been running for five years and is the captain of the Victoria High School cross-country team, says he gets "a great deal of enjoyment out of walking."

"What I need now is a coach who can tell me whether my walking style is right," he added.

He plans to take a break every 10 miles with a rub-down and a sip from his secret concoction intended to bring quick energy to his body and muscles.

Alan is worried about one thing—what to do with the $100 first prize for the Colonist Walkathon overall winner.

His coach, Mr. Hartley, gave him a tip:

"You can donate it to a charitable organization."

Why the concern? Alan was worried about losing his amateur status.

"Goodbye, Andy, we'll never have another neighbor like you—not if I can 'elp it."

Desperate Bid

Students Fail To Save Life

PRINCETON (CP) — UBC students taking their education campaign to the Interior made a desperate attempt near here Thursday to save a man's life.

A busload of them was heading to Nelson seeking names for a petition when they encountered a wrecked front-end loader, its driver critically injured.

MOUTH TO MOUTH
Robert Parkinson, 20, was bleeding and near death.

Angus Whitmore of Nelson immediately began mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Denis De Jong applied pressure to Parkinson's leg to stop blood flowing from a two-foot cut.

Denis Stanley of Nakusp and John Cairns of Nelson held the crowd back and sent a motorist to contact police.

IN AMBULANCE
Parkinson seemed to revive, but died in an ambulance on the way to hospital here.

The students were bent on gathering names for their petition asking the provincial government to meet the operating costs in the UBC budget.

Police said a trailer-truck hit the loader on the side, upsetting the vehicle and throwing Parkinson onto the highway.

Real Caouette Pledge:

Taxes Back to Provinces

SHAWINIGAN, Que. (CP) — Deputy leader Real Caouette said Friday a Social Credit government would return complete jurisdiction over corporation and personal income taxes and succession duties to the provinces.

He said these tax fields rightfully belong to the province but were borrowed by the federal government during the Second World War.

The loss in federal revenue could be made up by cutting defence expenditures and through indirect taxes.

At Lac Megantic, Que. Henri Latulippe, seeking re-election as Social Credit M.P. for Compton-Frontenac, suffered a broken nose and facial injuries when he was attacked while trying to explain his party's policies.

Mr. Latulippe said the attack occurred in a hotel in nearby Cookshire where he and supporters stopped for refreshments after making a television appearance in Sherbrooke.

He said a man asked him to explain Social Credit doctrines and while he was answering two other men sitting with the questioner attacked him.

He said that at a meeting held to organize a Conservative association to cover the Shawinigan, Cobble Hill, Mill Bay and Malahat districts.

Mr. Chatterton, Tory candidate for re-election in Esquimalt-Saanich, also accused Liberal leader Lester Pearson of changing his position several times on whether Canada should accept nuclear arms.

Some 30 people attended the meeting which elected T. A. V. Tremblay of Cobble Hill president of the new association.

OTHER OFFICERS
Jack Ashkam of Cobble Hill was elected vice-president. Mrs. Lillian Calderwood of Cobble Hill was elected secretary-treasurer.

Song Leader Quits

OTTAWA (CP) — The president of the Ottawa Sweet Adelines group has resigned her post because of the U.S.-based parent organization's refusal to allow a Negro to belong to the branch in the Canadian capital.

Jane Burns, a Caledon Place, Ont., high school teacher, walked out of a branch executive meeting Thursday night.

ELISABETHVILLE, Congo — A shot fired through the window of his villa barely missed Jaime Valdes, a Chilean UN official whose life has been threatened by persons believed linked with former foreign mercenaries in the Katanga army.

She said, "I am a Canadian citizen" and added she did not have to uphold the constitution of the International Sweet Adelines Inc., whose headquarters are in Tulsa, Okla.

BRANCH GOES ON
Meanwhile a spokesman for the group said that in spite of resignations by a section of the membership, the Ottawa branch still exists and consultations will take place with a Sweet Adelines regional office to determine further action.

Thursday about half of the female barbershop quartet singers was reported to have resigned and indicated their intention to form a new club.

The controversy arose after Mrs. Lana Clowes, a Negro housewife, was barred by International Sweet Adelines Inc. from local membership because of a ruling which says only white persons can join.

He'll Answer Questions In Eight Languages

MONTREAL (UPI)—When John Turner goes politicking, he believes in covering all the bases. Well, most of them.

Turner, running for re-election April 8 as a Liberal in the St. Lawrence-St. George constituency here, announced that he will answer questions by telephone in a two-hour period Sunday in English, French, Polish, German, Greek, Italian, Spanish and Hungarian.

He'll use translators at a multilingual radio station after first delivering a campaign speech—in English.

New Tory Group Hears Chatterton

Emotional Crisis Is Problem In Nervous Breakdown Cases

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: Is a nervous breakdown serious? What causes it? Does it ruin one's health? Is hospitalization required?

Today's letter is a combination of several, with the writers asking similar questions.

Nervous breakdown is not a true medical term but generally speaking, the term really means an emotional crisis. The patient is unable to cope with some problem or combination of them.

Physical ailments may contribute, and extreme fatigue is one notable condition which is reflected in emotional troubles. However, there may also be good physical health, yet a "nervous breakdown."

FRUSTRATION
Frustration over a job, love or marriage combined with worry or anxiety over any number of other things are among the frequent causes.

Type and length of treatment depend on the cause: Rest, good nutrition and reassurance, along with helping the patient to look at his problems reasonably and refuse to be panicked by them, will bring an end to many a "nervous breakdown." In some instances psychiatric care may be needed, possibly psychoanalysis.

Once the patient overcomes his problems, or learns how to cope with them, he can be counted as recovered and probably will have no more trouble unless new pressures pile up on him.

TOO MILD A TERM
When such a "nervous breakdown" patient is referred to a hospital, the inference is that the case is a psychosis, or deep-seated mental illness. "Nervous breakdown" is then too mild a term.

It is, in short, a means of evading the use of the term "mental illness." But avoiding the truth is no way to solve our troubles.

When hospitalization is necessary, the extent of the illness is the all-important question. Sometimes only a few days or straighten out a case that has not been long neglected. On the other hand, some people refuse to face the truth until a case has gotten completely out of hand, and then there is far more danger that the patient may have to remain hospitalized for a long period of time.

As with physical illnesses, so with emotional or mental ones. The sooner they are treated, the greater the prospect of full, rapid recovery.

Dear Dr. Molner: As a sufferer from gout I have been advised not to drink coffee because it contains purines. I am drinking a coffee substitute and wonder if this is safe for me. It is made from wheat. I have been told not to eat anything containing whole wheat. — Mrs. M.L.B.

Yes, the coffee substitute is safe. Your warning against whole wheat probably is because of its coarseness. This does not prevail in the "coffee" you drink.

Dead Skipper Cleared In Titanic Disaster

LONDON—Fourteen months after the death of Capt. Stanley Lord, the British Merchant Marine Association has exonerated him of all blame for the 1,503 deaths in the 1912 sinking of the Titanic.

Two inquiry boards held shortly after the disaster said Capt. Lord's ship California was within sight of the Titanic but refused to help. Capt. Lord always insisted he was 30 miles away and Titanic survivors actually saw a Norwegian trawler engaged in illegal seal poaching. Friends believed him and finally forced a new hearing.

Boys in Kill Spree

RIO VISTA, Calif. (UPI)—Two teenage boys on a brief, violent career of crime Friday shot and killed a California highway patrolman when he stopped their stolen car, then took his patrol car and crashed it into a roadblock, killing a deputy sheriff.

The wave of violence, which lasted less than an hour, started with a bungled holdup attempt at Lodi, Calif., 25 miles away. It ended when the patrol car hit the roadblock at 100 miles an hour.

The suspects, who were critically injured in the crash, were identified as Jack Yikes, 16, and Richard Price, 18, both of Sacramento.

Shot and killed at the Rio Vista bridge crossing of the Sacramento river was Charles Sorenson, of Walnut Creek, a highway patrolman, who exchanged shots with the pair.

He was struck in the neck, apparently dying instantly. The boys then took Sorenson's car, having wrecked the stolen car they were driving against a telephone pole.

Too Many In Cuba

WASHINGTON (UPI)—American officials said Friday Soviet troop withdrawals from Cuba have fallen far short of what they had hoped for when Russia promised to evacuate "several thousand" by mid-March.

Police said they headed toward Rio Vista at 100 miles per hour and three miles east of Suisun, Calif., slammed at full speed into the roadblock consisting of a truck and a Solano sheriff's car, rolling over Solano deputy sheriff Hale Humphrey, Fairfield, Calif., who died enroute to hospital.

With Vigor

IT IS HEARTENING to learn that one of the country's foremost educators, UBC president Dr. John Macdonald, does not subscribe to the popular belief that Canada is in danger of becoming an intellectual vacuum because so many of its young professional men are finding employment in the United States.

Speaking to a Victoria audience Thursday night, the UBC president said that statements made to the effect that Canada is suffering due to the export of the best of her young brains and talent are completely fallacious.

"This," he said, "is only a partial truth. There is really a favorable balance. We are, for example, gaining engineers from areas outside Canada, and this migration and exchange of talent is important and useful."

Though Dr. Macdonald cited only the engineering profession as an example, he left no doubt in the minds of his listeners that a similar happy balance had been struck in other fields of knowledge.

Giving credence, if any were needed, to his views is the recently released report of the Royal Society in London which lists the fact that between 1952 and 1962 Canada obtained as immigrants 242 doctors of philosophy from British universities, representing nearly 3 per cent of the total PhDs awarded in that ten-year period.

The United States during the same period found homes for some 318 British PhDs, a number, which though greater in total, reflects proportionately much to the advantage of Canada.

It is odd to reflect that though Canada has been expressing much concern for many years over the loss of her highly educated young men and women to other countries, it is only now that recognition is being paid to the fact that she is getting as many—or more—in return.

It is a point which all segments of our Canadian community should note well, whether they be in the category of politician, educationist or just plain citizen. If, on the other hand, it is ignored in favor of the negative view which has persisted for so long that our colleges and universities are simply building future American citizens at the Canadian taxpayers' expense, the effect could wreak disaster upon our future plans to expand our educational system throughout the nation.

Neither this country nor its institutions can move ahead to any worthwhile goal if they are continually being hampered by pessimism and negativism. Rather we should be proceeding, as a bright young man across the border once said, "with vigor."

A Poor Method

THE CONCERN of a committee of the Victoria Bar Association over the city's method of obtaining a new police court prosecutor is not surprising. The civic administration has not only been laggard in this respect, but would appear to be counting the direct cost above almost all else.

That appearance may be deceptive. But asking applicants to indicate how much salary they want carries the implication that the lowest bidder will have the best chance of the job. Nor is this surmise dispelled by the length of time that has passed since Mr. Angus Smith submitted his resignation last November and the city presumably began looking for a suitable permanent replacement who would serve in this position—none too attractive, because of the poor facilities offered in the decrepit and crowded police station apart from anything else—for a fee it regarded as adequate. Since Mr. Smith left at the end of December, Mr. Kenneth Murphy has acted as prosecutor temporarily, and already for two weeks more than he wanted to.

If as it seems the administration is making the salary the next consideration after adequacy of professional qualification, this can hardly be counted as good enough. The nature and abilities of a prosecutor have a real and important bearing on justice in the community, touching thousands of lives every year.

When the city found that it could not permanently get the sort of man it wanted for the price it proposed to pay—for that must have been the case—it should have raised the ante. But now when it does hire a prosecutor, it must take pains to show that it has not merely settled for the cheapest.

Victoria is fortunate in having a magistrate who has won general recognition as being of highest calibre. The cost should not be too penny-pinchingly counted if the city can be served by a prosecutor of similar repute.

University of Victoria

VICTORIA COLLEGE will officially disappear June 30, and on July 1, the seat of higher learning in the capital city will become known as University of Victoria.

The new title is designated in "An Act Respecting Universities" which is now before the legislature and is expected to become law within the next few weeks.

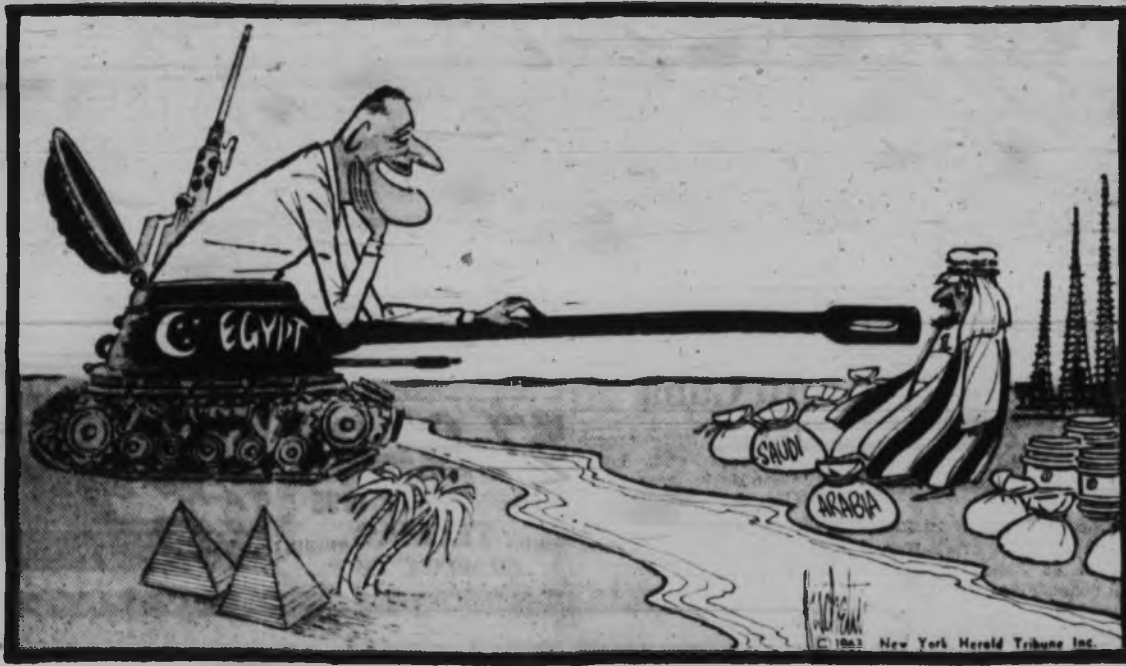

Thus comes to a happy conclusion a long drawn-out fight, first to give Victoria an institution which took students along to the graduation level, and second to achieve its independence of UBC.

It is also pleasing to note that the first chancellor of the new university will be retired county court judge J. B. Clearhue, who was not only a member of the first class of the old Victoria College, but who ever since has been active in college affairs, more lately as chairman of the College Council. The honor is well deserved.

An even more important step will be the appointment of a first principal for the new university of Victoria. Dr. Harry Hickman, who held the equivalent of this position in the old Victoria College, has indicated that he will not be a candidate for the post as he wishes to continue his teaching profession within the university.

So a new man has to be found, and it is upon the individual chosen that the huge responsibility of shaping the course for the new university, and the building of its prestige, will initially depend.

This is clearly a post for a man of vision who will dedicate himself to his task, and also one who is an administrator and a figurehead as well. The choice will not be an easy one to make, although the eventual recipient of the honor will find that he has behind him a well-proven faculty, a college with a high tradition, and further the respect and support of the city and its environs.

"Let me take you away from all this."

Human Nature Is Cruel

Venezuelan Seeds of Danger

By DR. ARNOLD TOYNBEE from Caracas

SOME mirrors accentuate the features of the faces they reflect, and in accentuating them, make them unmistakably clear. Venezuela today serves as a mirror of this kind. There you will see reflected the visage of the present-day world, with its characteristic features thrown into sharp relief.

Until early this century, Venezuela was not particularly prominent among the Latin American republics. It had, however, played a leading part in the liberation of the Spanish-American Empire from Spanish rule and shared with the Argentine the initiative in liberating the rest of the vast Empire of the Indies.

Venezuela and the Argentine played this leading role in the early nineteenth-century war of liberation, thanks to their geographical position. The Spanish colonial administration had tried to insulate the Spanish overseas empire from contact with the non-Spanish countries of the Western World.

Venezuela had, at her doors, the Dutch, French, and British West Indies; and, via the islands, eighteenth-century liberal thought had seeped into this adjoining part of the Spanish mainland. This item of history has a bearing on current events. The biggest of the West Indies is Cuba. You fly over Cuba en route from Caracas to Miami, the nearest big city in the United States. It is thus conceivable that history might repeat itself by making Venezuela serve again as the door for the penetration of revolutionary ideas into continental Latin America.

Until the present century, Venezuela was obscure because she was poor. Neither the Spanish imperial government, the Spanish colonists nor the native Indians had been aware of the wealth below their feet. They had thought in terms of gold and silver, and for these minerals, Venezuela was of no account compared with Mexico and Peru.

The story of Latin America's wealth has been like the story of the Arab world's wealth. The statesmen blithely drew untroubled frontiers across vast unexplored territories. It was not until after they had finished their haphazard work that Nature's equally haphazard distribution of her subterranean and subaqueous wealth came to light, and these natural accidents, in combination with the man-made vagaries, made some countries fabulously rich, while leaving neighboring countries miserably poor.

Venezuela has been one of the lucky countries, lucky, if one takes the conventional view that it is a blessing to become rich suddenly, by chance. Shortly before the First World War, prospectors discovered the oilfield round the edges, and under the surface, of Lake Maracaibo, and some years after the end of the Second World War, other prospectors discovered mountains made of iron-ore, with a 65 per cent metallic content, on the south side of the River Orinoco.

As you fly, today, over the iron-mountains of Venezuelan Guayana, you see below two huge lumps of rusty-ore rising out of the plain. The bigger of the two and it is by far the bigger is still untouched. It is being held in reserve. The smaller iron-mountain would be a big one by any other standard than the size of its neighbor. This smaller mountain is now being gradually scraped away (underground mining is unnecessary), and the ore is taken by train to the newly-built steel-mills above the junction of the Orinoco with its great southern tributary the Caroni.

Just before joining the Orinoco, the Caroni tumbles over a ledge in a long line of falls. The harnessing of one section of these has provided the infant steel-mills with all the hydro-electric power they need so far. The potential supply is virtually unlimited. The Caroni's tributary, the Corraoz, has falls as fine as the Caroni's (they are unharnessed, up to date). Next door to the iron, there is manganese. The only thing locally lacking for the present is suitable coking coal. The Guayana steel-mills import their coke from Britain.

As for the Lake Maracaibo oilfields, you might imagine, as you plane descends, that you were hovering over a vast armada of sixteenth-century caravels and galleons. The caravels are oil-well derricks; the galleons are weird-looking contraptions for capturing natural gas from below the lake-bottom. It is an astonishing spectacle.

Being now a treasure-house, Venezuela has become a land of contrast and inequalities and consequently a land of unrest. One is conscious of a tension in the air.

The housing of the Venezuelan workers of the lowest category in the Shell Company's camp at Lagunillas presents a narrow contrast to the splendor of the fishing village of Pueblo Viejo, which stands embedded in the oil-field like a festering fly in amber. Even here, life has improved. The villagers no longer drink the lake water beneath their pile dwellings. The Shell Company has piped pure water to them from its own supply. All the same, the contrast is sharp, and it is even sharper in Caracas, where shacks jostle with tall buildings of glass and concrete in an ultramodern style of architecture, while super-speed thoroughways cut across primitive mule tracks.

The shacks are pathetic monuments of unfulfilled expectations. Since a golden rain from the oilfields and the iron-mountains began to descend on the capital, the poverty-stricken subsistence-farming peasantry has been streaming out of the countryside into the city. Perhaps one in a thousand finds his dream of a better life come true.

Here is a polarization of extremes of wealth and poverty. Polarization creates high tension, and high tension generates destructive sparks. Today Venezuela is afflicted with sabotage and terrorism. But there is a paradox here again. This violence is what one would expect, yet it does not proceed from the expected quarter. It does not come from the urban shanty-towns or from the rural slums-out of which these have been populated. It comes from the university campuses.

Yet the university students are not members of the "haves-not" majority of the Venezuelan people. Quite a generous shower of the golden rain has come the students' way. In the university at Caracas there are no tuition fees. Venezuela can afford this, but she can hardly afford the students' reaction. No doubt, it is only a fraction of the student body that reacts to prosperity in this violent way; but this fraction is enough to keep Venezuela in a fever. Here we have the present-day state of the world accentuated with a vengeance.

The iron-mountains of the Orinoco basin are being converted into ingots of steel by the Venezuelan government's own enterprise. The oil industry is largely in the hands of foreign companies. Shell is a joint Dutch and British enterprise; Crooke is North American. For capitalistic enterprise, Venezuela is a bed of thorns, and it is naturally even thornier for foreign capital than it is for Venezuelans.

The foreign companies operating in Venezuela are following an enlightened policy. They are wisely trying to make their presence agreeable to the Venezuelan people by performing a number of services that are of unquestionable value for Venezuela's national development. On the companies' staffs, more and more Venezuelans are being employed in responsible positions.

The companies are, in fact, making themselves serve as schools in which Venezuelans can learn modern technology. The companies are also doing disinterested work for Venezuela in fields quite unconnected with their own commercial operations.

Venezuela has the makings of an earthly paradise. It would, in fact, be one if a paradise could be stocked solely with minerals and plants, without needing any complement of human inhabitants. Human nature is the crux. Venezuelan human nature is probably no better and no worse than elsewhere. Venezuelan wealth, however, is something quite out of the ordinary, and extraordinary wealth puts human nature to one of its hardest tests.

Can human nature stand this? That is the critical question today for Venezuela, as it is for the world as a whole. And the outcome in Venezuela, whatever it may be, is bound to be of world-shaking importance. If, in Venezuela, the spirit of President Kennedy's Alliance for Progress were to suffer defeat that would be the opportunity for Doctor Castro of Cuba. Present-day Venezuela is as great a prize as a sixteenth-century Spanish treasure galleon. Into whose hands is this prize going to fall?

Canada's Cities

The Key to the Future

By DAVID GRENIER

DO Canada's cities hold the key to the future? This may be a disturbing view to those who hold that this country's biggest asset is its scenery. And it may upset the feeling that cities are places to get away from—at weekends, in summer or any time there's an excuse.

But consider for a moment the part cities play in the development of an economy.

They promote a high interchange of goods and services. They provide compact markets for producers. They support institutions—schools, laboratories, universities—where the ideas that shape progress are often evolved.

In Canada, one of the problems has been the way people have turned their backs on cities, the amenities they provide, the opportunities they afford.

Yet how could Toronto be the financial centre and Montreal the commercial heart of the country—if it weren't for the concentration of head offices, the skills, the ease of communications only possible in "downtown" areas.

The same is true of shopping areas. "Downtown" still has more to offer—far more—than a suburban shopping plaza. And interestingly, the newest experiments in shopping centres involve taking the equivalent of the medieval market outside the walled city into the suburbs.

The same is true in recreation.

also is one reason why fashion is an intangible— is one of France's biggest export staples.

Or take the case of Florence, probably the home of one of the finest leather industries in the world.

But as long as we look at cities as places to work, and prefer to live in dormitories, it's hard to believe that we can ever hope to release the dynamism inherent in urban life.

And we'll always be wondering what we're missing. (Telegram News Service)

Happiest People

By GREGORY CLARK

A TRAPPER friend of mine visiting the city has been giving me the benefit of some of his recent thinking, an activity for which he has much time on his lonely rounds through the winter.

"At this stage of the world's history," he says, "it seems to me the happiest people in the world, the most carefree, are those who have taken least advantage of mechanical progress. For example, a farmer must be far less apprehensive of war and revolution than a city person. He has the means of livelihood right on his land. He is not totally dependent on electricity, gasoline, gadgets and machines, as the city dweller is.

"By the same token, the more backward farmer, who hasn't got rid of his horses in favor of the machinery that is dependent upon supplies of fuel, is more care-free than the progressive farmer. The farther you get away from the most progressive and highly technological society, the more secure you are in the face of the threat of disease. A trapper, for instance, can survive with no technical aid whatever, except some ammunition for his gun. That's why I am here in town, to lay in a good supply of shells."

'The Colony'

Corridors of Time

By SHAUN HERRON

I KNOW a little old lady of more than seventy summers who has never married. She is sweet, clever, vivacious; in conflict a warrior; in conversation a cascade, and when she feels naughty she's a riot.

She passes to me her favorite fortnightly journal which is called The Colony.

On the mast of The Colony it says:

"In this world of timid thieves we could count the time again." R. F. Rich.

My little lady said to me: "You of course know the work of R. F. Rich? I did not. Nor did I quite understand the quotation from what I assumed to be Mr. Rich's poem."

Inside The Colony I found Mr. Rich again. Roy F. Rich, editor of "an intimate newspaper published semi-monthly at the Massachusetts Correctional Institute, Norfolk, Mass." to which my little lady subscribes.

Why does she subscribe to The Colony?

"Because of its noble prose," she told me without waver.

"Around us, lost deep in the unlimited corridors of time, are men whose aggregate of centuries would number thousands of years. Here, where many other thousands of years have accented in the past; here, where time out of mind has been frittered away; here also is the waiting scrap heap of yet unborn generations of losers, bearing the skeletons of their lives." So writes William Lepera in a rolling, philosophical piece about the paradox of time.

There is a certain preoccupation with time. In an editorial, Mr. Rich says, "Time, I have found, is like a drug. Prescribed correctly it can be invaluable, but in the hands of someone who is not qualified to judge the dosage, it can become a lethal weapon."

If that means what I think it means, it is very funny. Could it be that there are judges, as well as lively old ladies, who read The Colony and perhaps get the message?

Mr. Peppera writes again, this time—how that word time recurs—in a piece called Passenger List. Mr. Lepera looks out over his audience—as it were—fills his chest, throws out his arms and gives out magnificently: "When the farflung immensity of the Universe is considered, and then, the microscopic speck of dirt we exist on, we have an incongruity almost to the point of ludicrousness." It is a big place, isn't it?

There is more than nobility here, however. Joe Danese (The Mayor) files a report on the meeting of the Inmates Council and says in his closing paragraph: "In peroration I would like to add my sincere thanks for the service of the whole Council, for I don't think I could have better men to work with had I been drafted from Harvard U. as was our president." As Harvard men would proudly say: "You'll find us everywhere, in editor's chairs, in politics, in prisons—wherever active men go."

There are higher things also; so consistently high that I now keep listening for news reports of riots at Norfolk. This expectation of misfortune is prompted by the memory of the idealized visitors' day (an Open House) at an Ontario prison last year, with TV cameras and full coverage of the happenings of the hand within.

Next day, the cameras and reporters and peeping public were so happy to find a wrecked the place, protesting the conditions that only yesterday were "ideal."

Poetry is among the higher things and this is probably the norm since Oscar Wilde went up. Richard Boyajin in his column (Shades of Time) offers "a little poem written by myself."

Time has taken all the wine So the Southie boys are doing fine No more lumps or bumps No more fights with Andy Gumps.

Looking ahead to the coming day For the next meeting of the AA.

No more falling on their rumps Sobriety triumphs.

There is a tricky, sprung rhythm and a delicate half sprung rhyme in those last two lines that could put Mr. Boyajin in a college literature course.

Oscar Marceau is a different kind of poet: the kind of lyric. I think, though he calls it Epitaph:

A letter I wrote the other day To a beautiful maiden far away I opened near Her lover who had died that year.

I asked her who was to fill the space That was to be their last resting place. She told me that a maiden fair Would very soon be resting there.

And that her Epitaph would say I gave my life this month of May. So that beside my lover I may lay.

We are known, sometimes, by the company we keep and one wonders how straight was the face behind the hand that wrote the report on the Debating Contest.

"Two years ago West Point had the distinction of being the only institution to hold an edge over Norfolk." That word institution drops out like a casual smile. All men are born equal and end up in institutions: churches, West Point, Harvard, Norfolk, Alcatraz, Princeton or The University of Manitoba.

This year Norfolk took West Point on a split decision; the Deputy Sheriff of Norfolk County gave it to the home boys 8-73; the editor of the New Englander in a 2-1 line agreed 80-70 but the Director of Admissions at Wentworth Institute (a tough place to get into?) gave it to West Point 66-62.

Immediately below this report is an advertisement, "R.U. Satisfied with Yourself? Do you feel that you would like to gain more confidence? Learn to speak more effectively? Develop your relations with people around you? You would! Then sign up now for the DALE CARNEGIE COURSE."

The last line in one issue of The Colony, must have seemed ill chosen to the undergraduates at Norfolk, and to the post graduates it must have seemed like idle repetition. It said: "Nothing succeeds like success."

"So convince HIM it was just an accident..."

MLAs Turn to Work

By DON MATHESON

Premier Bennett suddenly turned the legislature to work instead of controversy Friday.

He jumped on a minor exchange to pull highways department estimates out of consideration and turned the House to bills.

As a result, 50 pieces of legislation were considered, three were approved and 26 were given approval in principle. Before the incident, 14 new bills were introduced.

JUNIOR COLLEGES

Most significant was legislation providing for two-year junior colleges set up under control of the school districts that want them with B.C. and the school district having capital costs.

On operational costs, federal aid will be deducted from the total and B.C. will pay half of what is left.

The legislature was debating Highways Minister Gagliardi's salary vote for the third day when John Squire (NDP-Alberta) asked that Mr. Gagliardi at least promise action on a better ferry and road system for the remote areas of the West Coast.

ASK WHATEVER

Some sort of promise would do. Premier Bennett replied: "What do you want promises for?"

"I'll ask for whatever I want," Mr. Squire replied.

Then, waving a pencil at Premier Bennett, Mr. Squire declared:

"You're the world's worst promise-maker."

Premier Bennett then turned to bills.

One recorded vote came when Mr. Squire objected to the raise in the homeowner grant to $70 from $50, something he said he couldn't vote for because it contained "political promises." Eventually, he did as the NDP lined up with the government, with only the Liberals opposed.

The second came on the bill removing tolls from five of seven toll bridges. It also was approved.

Elimination of the five per cent amusement tax was the third bill approved. New legislation includes provision for higher pay for MLAs.

NDP Lauds Government

David Barrett (NDP-Bowen) yesterday commended the government for introducing legislation to replace both the Boys' Industrial School and the Girls' Industrial School Acts and to provide for the care of children committed to training schools.

Mr. Barrett said he will travel the province telling the people that the government is looking forward in this department.

400 Demand Light At Death Crossing

More than 400 persons have signed a petition seeking some form of traffic light to guard pedestrians crossing Cook Street at Oxford, after the death Thursday of an 81-year-old woman injured there.

"There is no warning sign there for motorists and the crosswalk painted on the road is pretty well worn off," Walter Carter, organizer of the petition, said Friday night.

FUNBUTTON

"The ideal solution would be to have stop lights operated by pushbutton so a pedestrian could press the button and cross in safety."

Mrs. Josephine Crean, 1138 Oxford, was injured at the corner March 3. She died Thursday night.

Mr. Carter, president of Fairfield Pharmacy at the corner of Oxford and Cook, said he has had to assist at several accidents right outside the store.

WRONG BUSINESS

"That's not the kind of business we want," he said. "This is the nearest shopping centre to Victoria and it is almost as big and busy as Oak Bay's shopping area."

"In the Oak Bay area they have two flashing yellow lights protecting crosswalks. Here we have none."

"The screech of brakes outside the store is continuous."

"We have the most highly concentrated population in Victoria around this area and" many of them are elderly people.

"We get a lot of traffic through here, too, from the legislative buildings and VMD."

There are some 20 stores in the immediate area, Mr. Carter said there have been four deaths caused through accidents there and many "near misses."

Delay Proposed On Death Duties

The Victoria Chamber of Commerce has asked the B.C. government not to begin collecting death duties until experts have had time to study the implications of the proposed provincial legislation.

After a meeting of the chamber's executive committee Wednesday, a letter has gone to Premier Bennett and Attorney-General Bonner, asking that the Succession Duties Act be tabled to give interested groups a chance to study it.

CITES OTTAWA DELAY

The letter cites the action of the federal government which several years ago laid new succession duties legislation on the table for a year while interested bodies studied it and made recommendations, some of which the government implemented.

Chamber vice-president E. E. Pearlman Friday night said the letter is neither for nor against the B.C. government's decision to collect succession duties.

Kostenuk Takes Off

Indianapolis-bound Ed Kostenuk received sendoff from Mayor Wilson, above, and handful of local car-racing fans Friday. Local driver, who passed stiff rookie driving test at Indianapolis in 1963 before being sidelined by freak accident, hopes to qualify this year for first try by Canadian to win 300-mile classic May 30. Vancouver Island Track Racing Association is sponsoring two "City of Victoria Special" cars he will drive. Shown is dirt track car. Slightly larger, lower-slung Indianapolis car is being readied in east for big race. —(Robin Clarke)

LETTERS to the Editor

To be considered for publication in whole or in part, letters must be on subjects of general interest, not more than 200 words in length, and, if signed with a pen-name, must be accompanied by the writer's name and address.

I should like to add some points to your editorial regarding an institution for the retarded on Vancouver Island.

There is a pressing need for a school with classrooms for the retarded in this area. At present the only school is on Joan Crescent and is conducted in a small house with no playground for the children. The teachers are dedicated and do wonderful work. They are short-staffed. There is no one to teach reading and writing to those retarded able to learn. These children do not have a high enough IQ to attend special classes.

In the other districts there is no class for retarded. Many parents have not applied to Woodlands because of the long waiting list.

There is also a great need for greater help in the field of vocational direction for the older retarded. There is a desperate need for more instructors and equipment to teach male retarded.

A MOTHER

Truth by Censorship

Truth by censorship — at last we have it and for the purpose of checking up on the prime minister! But who will censor the censors? Must we stoop to this sort of thing? Must those responsible trail John Diefenbaker from platform to platform in the interest of veracity? The truth at times has strange bedfellows but seldom more so than in the present posturing.

Would they take away the right to be wrong? Can it be that the PM purposely distorts the truth to the embarrassment of himself, his party and the nation? God forbid!

Those who live in the house of truth should not be short-skirted lest they show a slip. For who can find condemnation in another without finding it in himself?

At most, politics can only bear witness, being neither judge nor jury — the people's prerogative! It is ridiculous to suppose that anyone in opposition has any more regard for the truth than anyone else in any other legitimate occupation.

Man or Party?

As a voter of fairly recent vintage, one thing has been puzzling me through the last two election campaigns: Should one vote for a party, or for a candidate? It appears that to an uncommitted voter there is little to choose among the parties. I would appreciate views on this.

Buy-Canada Big Success

By HARRY YOUNG
Columnist Business Editor

Thomas Eadie, president of Bell Telephone Co. of Canada, has found it paid his firm handsomely when it decided to increase its purchases in Canada.

During the past six years, Bell has diverted more than $60,000,000 of its $2,000,000,000 expenditures to Canadian manufacturers, and the company's imported items now have dropped from 10,300 to 800.

FOR 1,000
"The diversion has created full-time employment for 1,600 Canadians in the six-year period," Mr. Eadie told shareholders at Bell's annual general meeting.

What was even more important to Bell was the discovery that Canadian-made products of equivalent or better quality than the former imports were obtainable at a lower cost.

Author, Poet Dies Here In Hospital

Miss Julie C. Crawford, poet and author, died in St. Joseph's Hospital Wednesday after a short illness.

Miss Crawford's body will be taken to her native Kamloops for burial beside the graves of her parents.

Born in Kamloops, Miss Crawford taught school there for 41 years before her retirement in Victoria in 1952. She was the author of a novel and a book of poetry, published in 1927 and 1929, respectively.

Her father, Matthew Fulton Crawford, was the last survivor of those who witnessed the driving of the last Canadian Pacific Railway spike near Revelstoke in 1865.

Leap Forward

"But with the return of war veterans and the opportunity afforded them to get an education, it has taken a tremendous leap forward."

Dean Chant, dean of arts and sciences at University of B.C., was speaking on the future of higher education in B.C. in the first of five discussions on current Canadian affairs being sponsored by the association.

"A century ago it was con-considered unnecessary for the majority to be able to read and write," said the dean. "But if education had not become a common thing in Canada, our country would not have advanced nearly as much as it has."

Dean Chant said that before the Second World War educational expansion was on a relatively small scale.

Networks Agree On Football Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's rival television networks have signed a five-year agreement as a long-term solution to the controversial problem of televising Canadian professional football.

The agreement, designed to avoid a recurrence of last year's bitter Grey Cup TV dispute, was signed earlier this week by Alphonse Ouimet, president of the publicly-owned CBC, and Gordon Keeble, executive vice-president of the privately-owned CTV Television Network Limited.

Details were announced Friday in a joint statement by the networks, issued here by the CBC.

In essence, the agreement is a recognition of the national role of professional football and an attempt to ensure TV coverage for the widest possible audience in all parts of Canada by both networks.

Grand National Hopes Given Severe Setback

KEMPTON PARK, England (AP)—Tunbridge Wells, Britain's first municipal race horse, made a dismal start to his new career Friday.

He crashed into the ninth fence of the $770 Littleton handicap hurdle race, and hung over the fence, and the folk of Tunbridge Wells, County Kent, that fame and glory would come to their little town.

Tunbridge Wells is a town of 32,000 people, 34 miles southeast of London.

Norman Peacock, who keeps a pub called The Rose and Crown, started a syndicate for buying a race horse, naming it after the town and dressing the jockey in the town's blue and gold colors. They bought a five-year-old jumper named Harwin's First and changed its name.

The syndicate eventually aims to enter its horse in the Grand National.

MIDDLE-IRON PLAY

To play the middle iron (Nos. 5, 6 and 7), first open your stance a bit, moving the left foot about an inch further away from the intended line of flight (see illustration 1). This kind of stance permits an easier, quicker backswing turn.

Line-up with care, and see that the clubface is square to the target (see illustration 2). This kind of stance permits an easier, quicker backswing turn.

As the club goes back, let the right heel take most of the weight. Finish with the hands higher than in the backswing, however.

GEORGE CHUVALO ... late April

Cassius To Fight Chuvalo?

TORONTO (CP)—Rumors here say that Toronto's George Chuvalo, former Canadian heavyweight boxing champion, will meet Cassius Clay, current world heavyweight contender, in May.

The question of rights and commercial sponsorship, a thorny issue in recent years, also came under the terms of the agreement.

RIGHTS SHARED

The networks agreed that televising rights currently held will be shared. In future bidding for rights, CBC and CTV would agree on a common procedure though not on the amount of their bids, with neither network obtaining rights which cannot be exercised by the other.

For the 1963 and 1964 seasons, the Eastern Conference TV rights are held by privately-owned Toronto Television Station (CTV-TV), a member of the CTV network. CTV owns the rights for 1963 in the West and has first refusal on the Grey Cup rights.

Cagers 'Escape' From Own State

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—The controversy-plagued Mississippi State basketball team arrived belatedly Thursday after an intriguing drama at Starkville, Miss., to avert a court order against the team's participation in the National Collegiate Athletic Association mid-east tournament Friday night.

Coach Babe McCarthy, whose Southeastern Conference champions play third-ranked Loyola, Ill., in the opening round, was not with the team when it left Starkville Thursday morning. But he was picked up by his chartered plane at Nashville, Tenn., where he had burned Wednesday to avoid being served the restraining order.

Segregationists had the injunction issued by a chancery court judge late Wednesday seeking to ban Mississippi State from playing against Negroes in the East Lansing tournament.

Assistant coach Jerry Simmons kept the team's regulars in seclusion at a dormitory. As departure time neared, Simmons had five second-stringers and a team trainer, Dutch Luchinsinger, go to the airport. The idea was that if the order were served to that group, Simmons would be notified by phone and he would hustle the regulars to a private plane for a flight to Nashville, where a regular flight would be made to East Lansing.

However, when the advance party reached the airport there was no deputy and no plane.

Honor Plays Tonight

Dramatic Drought Ends for Schools

By BERT MINNY

Victoria and Milne's Landing high schools and St. Margaret's School have not figured in the honor performance of a schools drama festival for at least nine years. But last night, at the end of competition in the 1963 festival, they made it.

Thus, this evening, Milne's Landing will again present The Stones of Plouhenic from Tuesday evening.

Both Victoria High and St. Margaret's had two festival entries but attained the honor performance with respectively The Neighbors from Monday evening and Act V of A Mid-Summer Night's Dream from Wednesday afternoon.

Six other productions were close behind; indeed, such considerations as the physical length of plays or the necessity for a contrasting program this evening affected the final decision along with such more pertinent matters as artistic merit.

OAKLANDS' PLAY

Oak Bay Senior's delightful Harlequinade and Oaklands' exquisite Everyman were two of the close runners-up along with Glenlyon's satirical International Airport, Mount View's fiery production of Chekov's The Bear as well as their highly amusing The Cat Before the Hearse.

Recital Warmly Received

A large audience at North Saanich Secondary School Friday night warmly appreciated a recital by clarinetist Patricia Mallow and pianist Kenneth Johnson.

Mr. Johnson, a resident of the Sidney area and a graduate of North Saanich High School, is presently studying at UBC's Faculty of Music.

In a program which ranged from Bach to Ravel he displayed complete control and one of the highlights of his program was a delightfully fluid yet thoroughly sensitive rendering of Ravel's Sonatina.

LIKE GOULD

It was remarked that his playing of Bach was reminiscent of Glenn Gould—without the mannerisms.

The clarinet is an instrument of great range and flexibility and these features Miss Mallow exploited to the full. Her playing of Dunhill's Fantasy Suite was exceptionally well received. H.B.B.

UBC Entry Tougher Soon

VANCOUVER (CP)—High school students seeking admission to UBC next year may be required to have a 60-per-cent average in certain subjects, it was announced Friday.

The UBC senate approved the requirements, although it will be withheld "until it appears additional facilities beyond Grade 12 are available elsewhere in the province."

Victoria High School's second entry, A Ghost of a Chance, completed the list of honorable mentions.

LARGE AUDIENCE

The final competitive program took place before a large audience at S. J. Willis Junior High last night.

S. J. Willis Junior High's The Wise Fools of Gotham lacked an underlying fluency.

Adjudicator Verlie Coater noted "excellent team effort, clever timing and a beautiful set."

MORE ENERGY

"The play lacked pace," she added, "though too many pauses and more punch and energy was required at the beginning."

Mrs. Coater professed herself "quite amazed" at how the all-boy cast from Glenlyon School put over their play, International Airport.

"The boys," she said, "did a very good job."

BY ALL COUNTS

This was a highly entertaining presentation with distinctive characterizations by all cast members.

The program ended with North Saanich Secondary School's production of The Bear which, unfortunately, seemed as a whole to require more preparation.

The honor performance followed by the announcement and distribution of awards takes place at Oak Bay Junior High School, starting at 8 p.m.

FRANCES MCCANN

U.S. Singer Slain In Rome Hotel

ROME (UPI)—An attractive American singer who starred on Broadway and on the road was shot to death Friday in her room in a fashionable hotel on Rome's Via Veneto. Two rooms away, her manager was found unconscious with a bullet in his head.

Found sprawled on the floor of her bedroom, clad only in a filmy pink nightgown, was Frances McCann, 42, wife of G. Walter Rodgers, Jr., of Altadena, Calif., and the mother of four children. She had been shot four times.

On the bed in his room was Ernest Boxmann, a German-born U.S. citizen who lives in New York City. Police said he was shot with the same gun that killed Miss McCann.

Police quoted Boxmann as saying he remembered taking Miss McCann to the opera Thursday night and entering her room when they returned to the hotel, but after that his mind was blank.

Bid to Blast Wheel Loose Kills Two Texada Miners

POWELL RIVER (CP)—Two miners were killed and a third injured Thursday night in a dynamite blast in an iron ore waste dump on Texada Island, 55 miles north-west of Vancouver.

Wilbur Leonard Roach, 50, of Texada Island, and Maurice George Gaudet, 26, of Prince Edward Island, were killed almost instantly when the dynamite exploded prematurely. Both were standing over the charge.

Rudy Lipus, 27, of Texada, was taken to hospital here with concussion, shock and multiple injuries. He was standing a few feet away when the dynamite erupted.

All three were employed by Texada Mines Ltd.

A mines department inspector said the miners were preparing to blast loose a seized-up wheel from the shaft of a mining shovel.

The charge went off as the two packed it with mud. Officials said the miners apparently tried to remove the wheel with hammers and other tools without success. They took the shaft to a waste dump and tried to blast the wheel-off with half a stick of dynamite packed in mud.

Mine officials said small quantities of dynamite are used at mine sites to separate wheels from shafts when other methods fail.

Airline Wins Picket Ban

VANCOUVER (CP)—Supreme Court Justice E. W. McInnes Friday granted an order to ban all picketing and strike activity at Pacific Western Airlines operations where stewardesses and traffic employees struck Feb. 26 for higher pay.

The judge said the order would be effective until next Thursday.

CANADA NEEDS GOVERNMENT WITH PURPOSE

More than anything else, Canada needs a government with purpose... a government with clearly-stated objectives for the country's economic future and for the people's well-being. That kind of government—purposeful and decisive—can only come from a party that knows where it's going. Liberal objectives are clear: (1) to provide decisive government so that Parliament can do its job; (2) to harness the energies and brains of labour, management, farm groups and government in an expanding economy that will create the jobs and job-security that all Canadians must have; (3) when this is accomplished, to make sure that all Canadians share fairly the benefits of economic growth. The Liberal Party asks for this great responsibility, knowing that the job to be done is an enormous and difficult challenge. Your Liberal candidate asks you to turn to the Liberal Party on election day, April 8, so that a decisive Liberal government can get down to business, and achieve these objectives.

Soviet Leader Purge Sought by Chinese

Nuclear Stand, Medicare Bring Biggest Applause

OSHAWA (CP) — T. C. Douglas came to this auto-making city Friday night and hammered on the need for full-scale economic planning with hefty injections of social welfare.

But the national leader of the New Democratic Party got his heaviest bursts of applause from a crowd that filled most of a 1,000-seat high school gymnasium when he referred briefly to NDP plans for a medical care program and the need to fight the nuclear "madness."

LEADING ISSUE

He said the most important issue facing Canada is to get the economy growing through planning by representatives of all sections of society.

"We have planning now," he said. "Corporation planning in the interests of the few, rather than for all."

"We do not accept the proposition that what is good for General Motors is good for the nation," he said in the home of General Motors of Canada.

He referred to criticism of his comment in Windsor, Ont., March 1 that an NDP government would not allow the Ford Motor Company to move out of that city if it endangered the community's welfare.

"What is involved here is really the touchstone of economic planning: When a plan is democratically arrived at... if it then comes to a head-on collision with a vested interest — who backs down, the vested interest or the Parliament of Canada?"

WON'T BACK DOWN

"I want to assure you that under New Democratic planning, the Parliament of Canada will not back down."

"When an industry locates in a community — especially a one-industry community — the people have a lot more invested than the industry."

LONDON (UPI) — The Soviet bloc's World Marxist Review charged Friday that Communist China has demanded a purge of the Soviet Communist leadership presumably including Premier Khrushchev.

The authoritative journal, published in Prague but controlled by Moscow, said in its current issue reaching here Saturday that China accused the Kremlin leaders of betraying world Communism "revisionism" in the Communist vocabulary.

INFERENCE UNMISTAKABLE

It did not name China directly but its inference was unmistakable. The charges appeared to widen the Soviet-Chinese split at a time when Peking is calling for peace talks with Khrushchev.

"Outright attacks were leveled against the Communist party of the Soviet Union," the journal said in a long manifesto outlining the policies of Khrushchev and his satellite allies.

"It's leaders were accused of revisionism and cries were raised for their removal."

No Peking attack reaching the west has gone so far as to demand the dismissal of Khrushchev, but it was thought possible the Chinese had made the demand without publicizing it.

IMPORTANT STEP

Experts here said there was no doubt the publication of the five and one-half page manifesto in the party journal was an important step in the ideological battle between the two Communist giants.

By repeating Khrushchev's policies of peaceful coexistence and attacking the Chinese as "political leaders... indulging in pseudo-revolutionary phraseology," the journal left little room for compromise with Peking's tough line.

Its most serious charge, however, was that one Communist party had attempted to act against Moscow, the centre of the movement.

"In a word, a blow was struck against the party which now bears the main burden of the struggle against imperialism, a party which is the rallying centre of communism," it said.

B.C. Won't Block Arcade in Square

Victoria's fears that the provincial government might block the inclusion of a shopping arcade in the Centennial Square scheme have been allayed, a city hall spokesman said yesterday.

Ald. A. W. Toone, chairman of the committee in charge of planning the $2,000,000 project, said the difficulty arose from the interpretation placed by city hall officials on a letter explaining the government's position.

After further talks with government officials, he said, "we feel the city will receive every co-operation from the government."

Former Victoria alderman Michael Griffin was elected president of the Victoria Liberal Association at a meeting Friday of the association's 35-member central executive.

Mr. Griffin, who nominated Foster Isherwood at the Liberals' nominating convention, this week said he now is behind Capt. David Gross, who defeated Mr. Isherwood.

Former association treasurer Jack Brice and treasurer Kenneth B. Cox were returned to office. The three will hold office until the next meeting of the Victoria association.

Oil and gas production in B.C. has increased tremendously in the past seven years but the end is nowhere in sight, Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan told the Pipeline Contractors' Association convention Friday.

As recently as 1936, he told the convention, which ends today, B.C. produced no commercial crude oil and only minor quantities of natural gas.

By this year, B.C. had 326 producing oil wells with another 26 capable of production, and 337 gas wells capable of production. All this development saw at least $630,000,000 spent in B.C.

Three members of the RCN and a dockyard worker took the first three places in preliminary competition last night.

Art in Square

Centre Future Dim?

Barkers of a scheme to establish an art centre here still would like to locate in Bastion Square—but they are beginning to wonder if they will not be forced to look elsewhere.

Allan Edwards, spokesman for the group, said yesterday it was city hall officials who suggested this choice of site. "Yet we appear to have been carefully and admiringly manoeuvred out of the old courthouse, and not even given any assurance that we can be located in the Duncan building," he said.

Mr. Edwards said a tour of the Duncan building recently purchased by the city showed it could be renovated for use as a centre for teaching arts and crafts and music.

Of the two buildings, he said, the courthouse is the more suitable accommodation for the needs of the centre but it appears to have been promised to the B.C. Maritime Museum.

"An art centre of the kind we have proposed would be a tremendous asset to the city," said Mr. Edwards. "It could do a great deal for Victoria. We would like to have the centre in Bastion Square, but it doesn't have to go there. We could go back to our original plan of looking elsewhere in the city for a suitable location."

Mr. Edwards added: "We don't want anyone to get the idea that we're begging on bended knees. We're not trying to carry out this project. It's a lot of work and all of us have our own businesses to attend to."

"We are all thinking only in terms of what it would do for the city."

City council Thursday ordered preparation of a complete planning study of the area which would outline future city plans for Bastion Square.

The survey will also contain recommendations as to the use to which various components of the square should be put.

He Had to Be Kidding Says Mayor of Artist

The life-sized painting of a scantily-clad blonde presented to the city yesterday has already been relegated to an attic storeroom. Local painter Albert G. Sterling described it as his own answer to a controversial abstract presented last year by Herbert Sieber, now travelling in Europe on a Canada Council grant. Mayor R. B. Wilson said yesterday the whole thing was "obviously a joke."

Bizarre Story Unfolds

He Took Arsenic Wife Tells Jury

Verdict: Poisoning By Unknown Hand

By BOB PETHICK

Keith Gordon Thorner, 37, of 961 Darwin, died of arsenic poison administered by an unknown hand, a coroner's jury ruled last night.

Verdict at the inquest into Mr. Thorner's death Feb. 3 at St. Joseph's Hospital was that death was caused by arsenic poisoning administered by person or persons unknown.

The victim died shortly after being rushed to hospital from his home.

During the inquest at Hayward's funeral home, Thorner's widow, Pearl Anne Thorner, dressed in black, tearfully described the bizarre circumstances surrounding the death.

Mrs. Thorner testified under protection of the Canada Evidence Act and broke down frequently during the long questioning period.

She told the jury she and her husband had gone to the Drake Hotel in the late afternoon and had some beer. During the time they were there Thorner asked his wife to invite an Indian girl, sitting at a table by herself, to have a drink with them.

They were later joined by Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn West, 753 Market, and all decided to go to the Thorner home for some food. During the trip Mrs. Thorner stopped twice, at the liquor store to purchase a bottle of gin and a dozen beer, and at a food store.

The Indian girl, Adeline Suzanne Morris of Brentwood Indian Reserve, was sitting in the front seat with Mr. Thorner while Mrs. Thorner got out to do the shopping.

The couple lost the Wests on the way. They were following in their own car.

Mrs. Thorner told the jury the three of them sat around the house and her husband suggested they ask Miss Morris to stay with them as there was no way for her to get home.

"I told her to have a bath because I felt she was dirty," Mrs. Thorner testified in answer to questions from Saanich crown prosecutor Kenneth Murphy.

She said the girl had gone into the bedroom, then Mrs. Thorner had a bath.

Then Went to Think

After Mrs. Thorner had her bath, she went into the bedroom and found her husband making love to the Indian girl, she testified. She said she left the room and went into the kitchen to think.

Later, she said, Mr. Thorner entered the kitchen, took a tin from the lower cupboard and put it on the counter top.

"I wanted to talk to him about seeing a doctor," Mrs. Thorner said. "I told him if he wouldn't, I would leave him."

She said he had attempted suicide on one occasion. Her husband indicated the can and told her that was the only way out, she testified.

She said she did not know what was in the can. Mr. Thorner then returned to the bedroom.

Mrs. Thorner testified that after some time she picked up the tin, then went into the bedroom.

She told her husband: "All right, let's get it over with," and handed him the tin.

"He put it on the floor," she said.

Mrs. Thorner said her husband pulled her down on the bed.

"I got sick and left," she said.

Mrs. Thorner said that after a time (she didn't know how long as the clock had stopped) her husband came back out into the living room.

"I was trying to talk to him. I asked him not to drink anymore. He said 'Don't worry, that was my last drink.'"

She said she went into the bedroom to tell the girl to get out and when she came out, her husband was in the bathroom being sick. She said she heard him retching.

He said: "I'm dying," Mrs. Thorner testified.

Neighbors Phoned

She sent her young daughter to phone for a doctor and ambulance but she was unable to raise the neighbors. Mrs. Thorner then woke up some other neighbors and they phoned for the ambulance.

She said her husband was covered in a cold sweat and she tried to wipe him off. Mr. Thorner had fallen on the floor by this time. He said: "Poison, don't tell," Mrs. Thorner testified.

Mrs. Thorner said the tin was on the bedroom floor where she said, her husband put it.

She was shown a tin and said: "I thought it was greener than that."

Then she said: "I guess that's the one."

She said her husband had at one time left the house to get some wood.

Mrs. Thorner said she took the tin and put it back in the cupboard.

Found in Five Areas

He was asked if the arsenic found in Mr. Thorner constituted a lethal dose.

"Yes sir, very much so," he replied.

Arsenic was found in the stomach, brain, kidney, liver and hair, Mr. Rideout testified.

Miss Morris testified she took a bath and went to bed. Mrs. Thorner told her where to sleep, she said.

Mrs. Thorner came in and kissed her but she asked him to stop and he did.

She said Mrs. Thorner came in later and she believed the Thorners made love.

Mr. West said he followed the Thorner's in his own car. He said Mr. Thorner appeared to be trying to kiss Miss Morris, who he called "Suzy." He said Mr. Thorner appeared un-

Planning to be married today are Mrs. Mary Wallace, 81, and Robert Cook, 85, who met in Victoria in December after not seeing each other for 62 years. They worked together on a farm in Manitoba around the turn of the century when both were young.

After 62 Years

Meet Again Wed Today

A Victoria couple who met three months ago after a separation of 62 years will be married today.

Mary Provo and Robert Cook met in 1898 when they were teenagers working on a farm in Manitoba, Man. Both got married—to someone else—within a few days of each other, when Mary was almost 17 and Robert was 22.

They got together after mutual friends told Mr. Cook that Mrs. Wallace was living in Victoria. "As soon as he found out I was here he said 'I'll find her,'" said Mrs. Wallace. "He was the first to suggest we get married but I guess we both had the notion of it."

PERKED UP
"He was pretty lonely ever since his wife died, but our friends say he's perked up quite a bit since we met," she said.

"He says now he should have married me when we first met, but he was always a shy boy."

Up-Island Shelter

Underground 'Rest' Ended by Soldiers

More than 200 soldiers have emerged from a fairly luxurious sojourn underground testing a civil defence shelter near Nanaimo.

Soldiers of the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, and senior officials of the crown company Defence Construction Industries—220 persons in all—spent about 28 hours in the shelter.

REPORTED ACCEPTED
Purpose of the test was to check and adjust air conditioning and other mechanically operated equipment of the huge shelter. It was reported the bunker was accepted by the army after the tests.

Most of those involved were in the bunker from late Wednesday morning to about 2 p.m. Thursday, but an advance party of 40 had entered Monday morning.

Soldiers reported the time passed quickly and there was no claustrophobia. Better-than-average food prepared by PICLI chefs included steaks, roast beef and Chinese food.

The bunker is equipped with a kitchen and cafeteria, as well as its own power and sewage plants, and could run as long as supplies lasted.

DOUBLE BUNKS
Sleeping is dormitory-style, with rooms accommodating six to eight persons in double bunks.

The air conditioning is adjusted to compensate for the dissipation of body heat.

The bunker is designed for emergency use by senior government officials. Although there is little combustible material in it, zones can be shut off in case of fire.

70 Here to Enter Continental Bridge

About 70 Victoria bridge players will join 25,000 players throughout Canada and the United States Wednesday in the second continent-wide tournament sponsored by the American Contract Bridge League.

Victoria players will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the Elks Hall, 732 Cormorant to receive ministers are expected to be on hand. Mr. Thompson's speech was originally scheduled for the same time at a different place.

New Link Now Open

New road linking Tolmie Avenue with Topan, here looking north, was opened to traffic for the first time this week. Designed as section of a second entrance roadway to Victoria it now ends abruptly. City plans on spending further $25,000 repaving of Rose Street on that link is extended to Hillside Avenue. There is also a link with Douglas by way of extension of Finlayson. New road will serve Mayfair shopping centre when it opens sometime late this fall.

Student Campaign

Petition Forbidden In High Schools

Victoria high schools have been forbidden to participate in the circulation by university students of a petition calling for increased B.C. government grants for higher education.

John Gough, Greater Victoria schools superintendent, last night said: "We do not agree with student participation in something of political significance."

BACKED BY PRINCIPALS
He said the decision was reached without reference to the school board, but had the backing of high school principals.

Meanwhile, 170 Victoria University students will continue their blitz for signatures in shopping centres, bowling alleys and on downtown street corners today.

DOOR-TO-DOOR BLITZ
The campaign started Thursday night with a door-to-door blitz which resulted in 15,000 citizens signing the petition.

Four University of B.C. undergraduates whose parents live at Campbell River arrived at that town yesterday and were given a warm welcome by school board chairman James Standeven, lawyer J. R. Caldwell and high school principal James Smith.

OFFERED TABLE
Mr. Smith offered the four students—out to gather signatures under the petition—a table at the high school last night when the school drama club presented The Egg and I and a capacity audience was expected.

Representatives of Victoria

For Student Leader

Ovation at Varsity

Outgoing Victoria University student council president Ali Pettersen Friday night received a standing ovation for the way he handled the current students' campaign for signatures under a petition for more government financial support.

The applause was suggested by student council president-elect Larry Devlin during the passing of the gavel ceremony at the university's annual awards banquet and dance at Club Sirocco.

Student council president's award for the student who has contributed most to college life went to Lorne Priestley in recognition of his work as special events chairman and as co-ordinator of the action committees.

Tin Pot trophy went to Terry Matte, news editor of the university's newspaper, The Martlet, for the greatest contribution to college life through the medium of the printed word.

Wayne Liendray walked away with the Martlet award, given to the best sportsman.

TROPHY NOT WON
Some students came close to, but no one was found worthy of the Maycock trophy, awarded for what amounts to the best student prank of the year.

Phrateres, a girls' service club, and the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship split honors for the Most Active Club trophy.

NO PROPAGANDA
Had it been known in the first place a petition would be involved, Mr. Gough said: "I would not have endorsed any propaganda in the schools."

He said his stand had nothing to do with whether or not he is sympathetic to the position being taken by the student councils of the universities of B.C. and Victoria. But "students in schools must not be placed in the position of signing petitions," he said.

CAN MAKE POINT
"I think the university students can make their point without going into the high schools."

The students campaigned yesterday in the busier sections of town right up until store closing time at 9 p.m. and will continue the campaign until Saturday night.

COVERED DUNCAN
A group of Victoria students covered the Duncan area where they obtained 1,800 signatures.

The completed petitions will be combined with those of the UBC students' campaign and sent to the provincial government as a joint effort.

Enlarged Church To Be Rededicated

Archbishop Harold E. Sexton will rededicate the enlarged St. Martin-in-the-Fields Church on Obed Avenue and bless the new parish hall, and Lieutenant-Governor George R. Pearkes will officially open the hall at a ceremony at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

SERVICES IN BARN

The Sunday school prospered and church services were started in the barn with the assistance of three young laymen from St. John's and St. Paul's parishes.

A small church building was constructed by the people of the church in 1914 on a site almost directly opposite the present church.

It was named St. Jude's, and for many years services were taken by Victoria clergy and laymen.

CHURCH RENAMED
The church was renamed St. Martin-in-the-Fields according to the wishes of Rev. Lloyd Keating, who left a sum of money to build a new church, and wanted it named after his mother church in England.

The present church was built in 1926 and, along with All Saints Church, View Royal, graduated from mission status to that of a self-supporting parish in 1960.

The present addition was begun in 1961.

Anglicans Studying Plan For Women in Priesthood

LONDON (AP)—The Archbishops of Canterbury and York named a special committee Friday to study whether women should be admitted to the Church of England priesthood.

If the committee recommends women be ordained, the move will have to be approved by the convocations of Canterbury and York, composed of clergy; the church assembly, which includes laymen, and Parliament.

Rebuilding Project Will Start Shortly

Building work at First United Church is expected to start within the next few weeks, Rev. Dr. R. McElroy Thompson said Friday.

He said the Sunday school hall will be rebuilt and will contain offices and a chapel besides Sunday school rooms.

The basement will be remodelled to contain an improved assembly and banquet hall.

He said the Sunday school will be completed by early fall.

Logan Mayhew, chairman of the building committee, said the five has made it possible to complete the church's master building plan in revised form.

THE VOICE OF ONE

By REV. DR. FRANK S. NORLEY

A British newspaper carried the following paid advertisement "Sense of Humor. Can anyone advise how best to acquire one?" A sense of humor can save a man's soul. It preserves his balance, gives him a sense of proportion. Nothing sometimes is more healing than laughter. Doesn't the Bible say, "There is a time to weep and a time to laugh?"

I often think of the gaiety of God who made all things lovely so that at the creation "the morning stars sang together." What is more wonderful than the laughter of children, sun-tipped laughter with out a trace of thinness or malice, laughter like the peal of bells breaking into the neighborhood, lost in the sky? Let salvation itself escape from high walls of isolation and misery into sunlight and joy?

Sullen Saints

Cyden, scholarly composer of a great concordance to the Bible, said that to laugh is to be merry is a sinful manner. Much better I like the beloved Saint Teresa who played, "God deliver me from sullen saints."

People Too Morbid

Few read Bret Harte any more. He was one of my boyhood favorites. He wrote "The Luck of Roaring Camp" and other stories of gold-rush days. In 1873, when on a lecture tour, he was feeling a bit depressed one evening before he went in to speak.

Then he tells in a letter how he heard an old Negro woman laughing and talking outside his hotel room. Her laugh was so sweet and unassuming and musical—so full of breadth and goodness—I went outside and talked to her while she was scrubbing the stones.

"It did me a world of good,"

Clergymen Oppose Nuclear Weapons

TORONTO (UPI)—Ninety-six Toronto clergymen were on record Friday with a joint statement opposing nuclear arms for Canada or her troops abroad.

The religious groups represented include Anglican, Baptist, Mennonite, Presbyterian, United Church, Unitarian, Jewish and Buddhist.

"While each of us has his own political and religious viewpoints," the statement said, "we do agree that the danger of accidental war increases with the spread of nuclear weapons."

PEACEMAKER ROLE

The statement added that without nuclear arms Canada could maintain and develop its special role as a peacemaker within the United Nations.

Murray Thompson of the Society of Friends (Quakers), who circulated the statement to 500 clergymen, said "the statement is not intended in the interest of any political party, but purely as an expression of concern by moral leaders."

ELECTION FEAR
He said Roman Catholic priests were not asked to sign in consideration of a suggestion by the Most Rev. Philip P. Pocock, Coadjutor Archbishop of Toronto, that the Children's Courts For B.C.

The B.C. government plans to establish family and children's courts in the province which will take over from juvenile courts but have a wider scope.

A bill introduced in the legislature Friday says: "The court is established for the purpose of assisting and guiding families and individual members of families in overcoming social and matrimonial problems, and for dealing with juvenile delinquents."

The new court also will have the power to deal with any child charged with an offence. Probation officers "shall endeavor to solve family problems without the intervention of a judge."

Flying from Europe To Sing at Empress

Remember how Victoria people thrilled to the unforgettable singing and dancing of the Mexican troupe at the Empress Hotel last December 6.

Many commented that Victoria needed more of this high-class entertainment. They felt outstanding talent was good for the city.

Now International Festival, an all-star show featuring top acts from Spain, Portugal and Italy will be flown to Canada by Canadian Pacific Airlines and seen in a three-night stop at the Empress hotel, March 25, 26 and 27.

The first two nights will be in the form of a cabaret dancing plus the imported entertainment and the third night will be a special dinner, dancing and entertainment in the hotel's Crystal ballroom.

The show includes Rul Mascarenhas, son of an army general, and winner of the festivals of Latin songs at the Cannes festival. In Paris night-spots he commands $600 nightly. He will sing modern songs in five languages.

The beautiful Nina Silvana, singing star of Italian musical comedies and films will share the entertainment spotlight.

The stunning red-haired singer started her brilliant career as a wide-eyed youngster studying operatic singing in Rome. She soon gave up the trills and cadenzas of Verdi and at 17 years of age went "pop." She skyrocketed into leading nightclubs of Italy and the United States, appearing in some of the more important places in New York, Chicago and Miami, as well as starring in musical comedies across Europe. She'll sing all the Italian favorites, a medley in English and French and Span-tionally famous song birds will be the Trio Albino, Sylvia Ros, Carmen Rollan and Graziella Vazquez who have toured Europe with the Spanish ballet of Antonio. They have performed for Queen Elizabeth, Queen Victoria of Spain and the Prince and Princess of Monaco.

As a trio they have won first prize of choreographic performance in Spain and all three have the Spanish baccalaureate. Graziella collects ashtrays. Carmen collects dolls and Sylvia likes to collect full size good-looking boys.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Rose of 3126 Balfour Avenue wish to announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Jacqueline Cheryl, to Mr. James Edward Chaplin, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Chaplin of 1038 Summit Avenue. Wedding will take place on May 4 in Centennial United Church at 7:30 p.m. with Dr. S. Parsons officiating.

Heather in Bouquet Sent from Scotland

Margaret Shearer Faulds chose a full-length gown of white corded silk, for her marriage Friday night to Mr. William Ashton Hodgson, which took place in First United Church.

The elegant gown featured a scooped neckline, trimmed with heavy embroidered lace. Lace was also at the waistline and flowed to a slight train. In her bouquet of pink rosebuds was a sprig of heather and blue tatarian ribbon, sent by relatives in Scotland. Her net finger-tip veil misted from a tangle of rhinestones and her single strand of pearls was a gift of the groom.

Rev. R. McElroy Thompson officiated for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Faulds, Oaklands Avenue, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hodgson, Savannah Street. Baskets of daffodils and white freesias were on the altar. The bride's brother, Mr. R. Faulds, sang "Bless This House."

Maid of honor, Miss Sherrin Molyard, wore a soft blue nylon chiffon over taffeta gown, with short lace jacket and toning accessories. She wore a blue floral whimsy and carried white carnations.

Miss Bonnie Hodgson, Miss Barbara Hodgson and Miss Carol Thomson, bridesmaids, were gown in pale blue nylon chiffon. Their accessories were white and they wore blue satin pill boxes. Their flowers were white carnations.

Mr. Robert Faulds was best man and Mr. James Moody, Mr. Robert Hodgson and Mr. Ronald Stewart ushered guests to pews marked with white carnations and fern.

The bride and groom were piped from the church by members of the Canadian Scottish band.

White freesias decorated the head table at the reception in Hollywood House. The groom's mother baked the wedding cake. The bride gave the sprig of heather from her bouquet to her paternal grandmother. Mr. William Jobson proposed the toast.

The new Mrs. Hodgson changed to a beige suit of polished linen for the honeymoon to the Okanagan and Vancouver. Her accessories were yellow and the corsage was gardenias. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Hodgson will make their home at Garden Park Court, Lovat Avenue.

Israelite Convictions Impress Miss Forsberg

By JULIE CLARK

After visiting Israel twice in recent years, Rev. Nancy Forsberg, an ordained Congregational Christian minister from New Jersey, decided to devote her time to lecturing on this country of 2,500,000 souls, 90 per cent of whom are Jewish.

Miss Forsberg leaves Victoria this morning to continue her Canadian tour before returning to the United States. At present she is sponsored by the Hadassah-Wizo Organization of Canada. In the city she spoke to the local Hadassah group on her topic, "Youth Aliyah."

"Aliyah," she explains, "started as an organization in Germany to help the Jewish children, to take them to the Holy Land, away from persecution."

There, they are educated and given vocational training under Aliyah auspices.

"After their training they are assigned to villages and communal kibbutzim. The handicapped are sent to special institutions."

Miss Forsberg, who gave up a life as newspaper reporter, turned to the ministry nearly 12 years ago.

At present she is executive secretary of New Jersey Christian Palestine Association, minister of the Italian Presbyterian Church at Newark, and free lance lecturer.

Her first trip to the Holy Land, in 1957, so inspired her that she returned alone in 1960. Her first journey was with college presidents, newspaper men and clergymen.

"I worked in a laundry and picked apples to keep myself there and also to meet the people," she continues. "I lived with families, who had come from all over the world, in order to see how they were adjusting to their new country."

During her two-month stay in Israel, Miss Forsberg studied the health and youth programs, education, agriculture, desert research, archeology and religious communities.

She observed curative and preventive medical programs to stamp out trachoma and the methods of irrigation to reclaim the desert regions. Since two thirds of Israel is desert, even the night dew is being used to make land productive.

"The people are imbued with a feeling that this land should be productive again; it should be brought back to life," Rev. Forsberg says.

But this dedicated young woman not only met the working force, she had an interview with Prime Minister David Ben Gurion and other top officials.

The Israelites belief, or rather conviction, that every human life has dignity and value, most impressed Miss Forsberg.

"They couldn't possibly work as hard as they do in rebuilding the country, unless they really believed this," she says.

$10,000 Can Be Won

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Earlier this week I made a passing mention of the $10,000 award offered to the first person who succeeds in growing a pure white marigold, and I suggested some Colonist reader might just possibly hit the jackpot with our free seeds of the Pfitzer Hybrid marigolds. This seems to have attracted quite a bit of attention and several readers have asked me to explain the deal.

The idea of the award originated with David Burpee, president of the W. Atlee Burpee Co. in California, said to be the largest seed order firm in the world. Mr. Burpee has a passionate and abiding interest in the marigold, and in fact his firm has done most of the development work which has made the modern marigold the popular flower it is today.

As I have mentioned before, the U.S. has no floral emblem, although each of the individual states has an official flower. Many blooms have been suggested as a national flower, including the rose, but most of these have already been adopted either by another country or by one or more of the states.

David Burpee believes the ideal flower for the U.S. national emblem is the marigold, and he has a lot of good arguments in its favor. He points out, for instance, the marigold is a native of the Americas and grows wild nowhere else on earth. No other country or state has adopted it as an official emblem, and the marigold will grow and thrive in every part of the U.S., including Alaska and Hawaii.

Burpee isn't content simply to offer his opinion on the marigold as a national emblem. He has had himself registered officially with the state department as a lobbyist on behalf of the marigold; he has prepared a draft of a bill which would make the marigold the official floral emblem of the U.S., and he has quite a bit of support in the House of Representatives.

David Burpee is most anxious to extend the color range of the marigold, thereby increasing its popularity. The natural colors are in the yellow and orange shades, extending to brown and reddish brown in some kinds, but it is Burpee's ambition to see a pure white flower in the marigold family, for once a truly colorless flower is achieved, the way will be open to introduce other colors. Burpee's scientific staff has come fairly close to the white marigold, and his varieties Man in the Moon and Whitey are very pale yellow or even cream, but none has been without a trace of yellow in its coloring.

While the Burpee organization continues to experiment with colchicine, x-rays and atomic radiation in an effort to force a breakthrough, Mr. Burpee himself is convinced the long-sought white marigold will turn up unexpectedly in somebody's backyard as a result of a chance mutation and, to channel attention on the research, he is offering $10,000 to the first person who delivers to him seeds which will produce a marigold 2½ inches across the bloom and as white as a "Snow-storm" petunia. A number of seeds were sent in last year and while none of them turned out to be free from traces of yellow coloring, four entries came close enough to win $100 consolation awards.

Our Colonist seeds of the Pfitzer Hybrids should ordinarily bloom in yellow and orange shades. Because they are highly-bred hybrids with rather unstable characteristics, anything could happen and we are quite within the bounds of possibility that one of your seeds might produce the elusive white marigold and the $10,000 prize. Statistically, your chances are slimmer than for winning the Irish sweepstake, but in this case your ticket doesn't cost you anything.

This is the last time I shall mention the free Pfitzer marigold seeds and, if you haven't yet written in for your free packet, I suggest you get the letter or coupon away this weekend. Don't forget to enclose a stamped and self-addressed envelope.

Old Masters Dying Breed

'Crimes for Kicks' on Increase

By LYNN POOLE

Johns Hopkins University

A new type of criminal, who commits crimes for kicks and is reckless and unskilled, is swiftly outnumbering the old resourceful, master criminal of the past, according to Dr. Lewis Yablonsky, sociologist at the University of California at Los Angeles.

The scientist points out that the business of the crafty criminal of the past, a dying breed, was to make money, and to make money took skill, planning, daring and shrewdness. Burglary, robbery, hijacking, forgery, counterfeiting and other professional skills of the criminal subculture, became highly developed in the late 18th and early 20th centuries. Specialists in such crimes not only knew how to pull a "caper," but how to do it in the cleanest way possible. Assault and violence were used as a secondary necessity to an end, not an end in themselves. This implied knowledge of law, of court proceedings, of police methods, and many other aspects of the "caper."

Today's criminal is more apt to be involved with kicks or thrills, and less with the material profit of his crime. His crimes are violent and often senseless. He has served no apprenticeship, as the old criminal had, and thus has developed little skill.

The old criminal codes of honor among thieves and "Thou shalt not sneak" are fast becoming criminal slogans of the past. The new criminal is likely to turn on his partners in crime, cheat on them and make technical errors in crime.

He is also much younger and more likely to be some type of addict. Rise in the use of narcotics, and lesser methods of gaining a physical kick such as smelling glue, releases what inhibitions the untrained criminal has and goads him into senseless criminal assault, "for no reason except to do it."

Downfall of the old criminal culture of the past is partially related to improved police methods. In the big cities police methods, through scientific crime laboratories, are beginning to win a technological supremacy over professional criminals, forcing them out of business.

High delinquency areas of the past had a stable population, and control. A criminal hierarchy could develop, through which the young trancer could progress upward. There was room at the top for an enterprising hood if he trained with older criminals and had vision, coolness and brains.

There is no criminal ladder to climb in a shifting slum population. Shift from a stable slum condition of the past to a disorganized slum, where no forceful character achieves mastery over all other criminals, appears to be a significant factor in the development of the new hoodlum.

During recent weeks we have been talking with other sociologists, police officials, court guardians and probation officers. All agree that the increase in crime rates, particularly among those violators under 21 is caused by the desire for kicks.

In 1962 the total violent crime rate rose seven per cent in spite of the fact that murder was down four per cent. Auto thefts increased six per cent; assault increased nine per cent. There were a total of 1,325,000 arrests for violent crimes in 1962; a percentage of four crimes per minute throughout the year.

As a group persons under 18 represented 43 per cent of all arrests for the more serious crimes; of these young males outnumbered young females better than six-to-one.

Burglary, auto thefts and criminal assault are many of the crimes included in the 43 per cent, nevertheless, police officials report to us that these crimes are more often than not committed for kicks, on the spur of the moment, or under the influence of drugs or alcohol. Young people, driven by some sense of lack in their lives, stimulated by a viciousness, carry out these crimes with no finesse or skill.

In this manner the major problem today is coping with the crime for kicks, not the minor problem of the old-school criminal. Thus, in the minds of those to whom we talked, the only solution lies in the sociological patterns of our age.

Disarmament Humor

'Black Boxes' Big Joke

GENEVA — Canadian delegate Gen. E. L. M. Burns presented a tiny "black box" to American Ambassador Charles Stelle and Soviet negotiator Semyon Tsarapkin at a party given to mark the first anniversary of the 17-nation disarmament conference.

The United States and the Soviet Union have been arguing about the use of "black boxes" — unmanned seismic stations — at the conference for months.

When Burns handed the gift to Tsarapkin last night, the Russian remarked: "I don't open this without a neutral inspection team being present."

Three neutral delegates to the conference promptly volunteered to oversee the operation. Then Tsarapkin demanded a "Russian observer."

Alexei Roschin of the Soviet delegation joined the group.

Amid much laughter

Tsarapkin and Stelle opened their boxes. Out of Tsarapkin's box jumped a jack-in-the-box in the shape of an American egg. Out of Stelle's jumped a Russian bear.

Delegates sang "happy

plenary session of the confer-

Noted Trial Play Plot

Tonight is opening night for the Victoria Theatre Guild production of Lawrence and Lee's Broadway success, Inherit the Wind.

This is the play based on the famous "monkey trial" of 1925 in Tennessee which involved Clarence Darrow (Henry Drummond in the play) and William Jennings Bryan (W. H. Brady).

The Guild has Robert Price as Drummond and Robert

Cooke as Brady. With Robert Lutes as Cates, in actual life John T. Scopes.

The very large cast involved is directed by Bert Williams and the play runs every night next week. Curtain time is

High School Students Will Visit University

More than 250 high school students who are intending to enroll in university next September will visit Victoria University this afternoon.

The object of the visit is to familiarize the students with the university before the rush next fall.

The visitors will assemble in the University auditorium on the Lansdowne campus at 1:30 p.m. where they will be addressed by Alma Mater Society president Alf Peterson and a member of the Victoria University faculty.

After the speeches, the students will be divided into seven smaller groups, and each group, under the guidance of two university students, will be taken on a tour of the Lansdowne campus.

At 3 p.m. the students will board buses and proceed to the Gordon Head campus. They will tour that campus and wind up the afternoon with a coffee in the student cafeteria.

Defence Critic Talks But Not on Defence

Liberal defence critic Charles Drury made a 30-minute speech in support of Greater Victoria candidates Friday night but didn't mention the defence question.

Only mention of nuclear arms came during the question period, when Victoria candidate David Groos was asked why he had changed his mind on the issue.

Mr. Drury defended Liberal leader Lester Pearson against a charge of changing his position.

OBSTRUCTION DENIED

In his speech, Mr. Drury contended the Conservative government was not "obstructed" during the recent session but was fearful of introducing controversial legislation which might "displease" the Social Credit or NDP members. Touching on the political unrest in Quebec, Mr. Drury said French Canadians are ready to participate fully in all aspects of life in Canada.

"It is up to us Anglo-Saxons—or should I say English-speaking Canadians?—to recognize this."

"It does seem a shame that in the past Canada has, in effect, been exploiting the intellectual resources of two-thirds of her population."

"Now this one-third of its intellectual resources is ready to be used and it is up to all of us, for the greater good of the country, to see they are used."

Discussion of nuclear arms came when a questioner told Mr. Groos he opposed nuclear arms for Canada in the last election, and "at that time you said you would resign if the Liberal party changed its stand. I want to know why you haven't resigned."

THINGS CHANGED

Mr. Groos replied that a number of things had happened since the last election to change the situation.

"In 1961 there were a great many nations at the nuclear crossroads and I thought we could have planted our flag then, made our stand, we could influence other nations."

"I saw no reason to change my stand in the next year and I was not elected and that brings me to your second question—not having been elected I see no need to resign if the Liberal party makes a change in its stand."

HONOR COMMITMENTS

Mr. Groos said he did not know last year that defences are being produced against the type of attack Canada might expect, and added that Canada has accepted commitments to accept nuclear weapons—commitments which should be honored.

Mr. Drury said the situation has changed to the point where Canada can no longer reject nuclear arms and Mr. Pearson wants Canada to honor its commitments.

HASN'T CHANGED

"Mr. Pearson has not been inconsistent, he has not changed his mind," he said. "What has happened is that a certain train of events has progressed beyond the point of no return."

Mr. Drury's speech was in support of Mr. Groos and Esquimalt-Saanich Liberal candidate Robert Ostler. Some 170 persons attended the meeting.

Rebel Still Opposed

Liberal rebel candidate Foster Isherwood assured a meeting of 50 election workers Friday he is still opposed to Canada accepting nuclear arms.

"My conscience is still clear," he said. "My position still is 'No nuclear arms for Canada.'"

"We must not expand the nuclear club."

Mr. Isherwood, disputing the recent Liberal nomination convention which named David Groos as the party's candidate in Victoria, is an independent candidate.

"Zigzagging by the captains of vessels and reversals of courses may be expeditious at times but to zigzag my political principles and promises is a game in which I do not intend to join," he said.

Mr. Isherwood listed five other planks in his election platform:

- Old-age pensions to be granted at 65 and attached to the cost-of-living index.

- Contributory portable pensions.

- Greater federal aid to vocational training schools and increased grants to universities.

- Development of a Canadian merchant fleet.

- Extension of the present three-mile offshore territorial limits to 12 miles in order to safeguard the fishing industry.

Canadians 'Over-React'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canadians who quietly worried over "brinkmanship" diplomacy and fallout from nuclear testing are making up for suppression of their feelings now with over-reaction toward the United States, Dr. Brock Chisholm said Friday.

The former director of the World Health Organization told a University of B.C. lecture series the U.S. exerted "only mild pressure on Canada to accept nuclear weapons," but Canadian reaction had been building up for some time "and was bound to gain overt expression some time."

Plane,

Missing

LA PAZ (UPI)—A Bolivian airliner carrying 39 persons including two Americans disappeared Friday on a flight from Chile to La Paz, according to airline officials here.

They said the Lloyd Aereo Boliviano DC-6 took off from Arica, near Chile's northern border, and should have completed the 600-mile hop to Bolivia's capital by 12:27 p.m. local time. It was still missing seven hours later.

Officials here said Arica's control tower reported the DC-6 made a perfect takeoff. Its flight plan included crossing the Andes at 19,000 feet.

A Panagra Airlines plane reported sighting the DC-6 heading due west, toward the Pacific Ocean, instead of on the generally northeastern course that would have taken it to La Paz, officials said.

33 Escape

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—A U.S. navy transport plane carrying 33 persons crashed and burned while attempting an emergency landing at Memphis naval air station Friday night. The navy said everybody aboard got out safely.

Iran Crash
Kills Four

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI)—A Trans Mediterranean Airways freighter bound for Beirut from Tehran crashed Friday seven miles southeast of Karaj and all four crewmen were killed.

Authorities said the plane took off from Tehran airport but immediately lost radio contact with the airport tower. Karaj is 24 miles west of Tehran.

Agents Charged
For Kidnap Bid

BERN, Switzerland (AP)—The Swiss government said Friday two Israeli agents have been arrested by Swiss police for trying to kidnap a West Germany missile scientist working for the United Arab Republic.

A government announcement described the agents as an Austrian and an Israeli citizen, but did not otherwise identify them.

STEERING SYSTEMS

Informed sources said the case was connected with an attempt to kidnap Dr. Hans Kleinwaechter, a West German scientist conducting research on electronic steering systems for missiles on behalf of the United Arab Republic's defence ministry.

Noisy Guests
'Shut Up'

ALICE SPRINGS, Australia (Reuters)—Chattering guests at a luncheon here Friday for touring Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip were shocked into silence by a shout of "shut up."

The man who shouted, Col. Lionel Rose explained, "I felt something had to be done to stop the mob from drinking and talking."

The guests had ignored an official who rose to propose a toast to the Queen.

Rose said the Queen's private secretary, Sir Michael Adeane, turned to him after he shouted and said "good on you old boy"—a typically Australian expression.

After the shout the Queen glanced at Rose, a colorful and controversial figure in this remote town in the heart of the Australian desert. She showed no expression.

Alberni Chieftains in Final

VANCOUVER — Alberni Chieftains will play Mennonite Educational Institute of Clearbrook Saturday night for the B.C. high school basketball championship.

Chieftains reached the final last night by defeating North Surrey, 60-47, while M.E.I. outscored Queen Elizabeth of Surrey, 62-50.

Courtesy Towlers advanced to the final of the consolation round by defeating Nanaimo Hubsters, 45-42, and will play Vancouver College for fourth place. (See story, Page 8.)

Three Injured

Three persons were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital last night after a car was in a head-on collision with a line-haul truck on Malahat. Arnold Mason, Shawinigan, Que., lone occupant of car, was reported in fair condition with a number of fractures and cuts. Mr. and Mrs. George Hensworth, Royston, were both in good condition in hospital. (Bud Kinsman.)

Pearson Pushes
Pension Plan

BARRIE, Ont. (CP)—A new contributory pension plan has top priority in the Liberal party's April 8 election platform. Liberal Leader Pearson said Friday night.

"It has this priority because it is necessary and desirable in itself and because it involves no added drain on the revenues of the federal government," he said.

It would be added to the existing old age pension which he said the Liberals had introduced in 1951.

Further, workers should be able to retain rights on their contributions when they change jobs, he said.

Mr. Pearson spoke to a crowd of about 900 in the school auditorium.

Mr. Pearson said he didn't think the Progressive Conservatives from Prime Minister Diefenbaker on down were inviting the kind of searching public inquiry necessary at this time. They preferred "emotion, smoke-screens, excitement and drama."

Truth Squad
On Way Out?

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says the Liberal party's "truth squad" will disappear, probably this weekend, under orders of national leader Lester Pearson.

HALIFAX (CP)—The Liberal party's "truth squad" asked for and received police protection at a Progressive Conservative rally addressed by Prime Minister Diefenbaker here Friday night.

Socreds Issue
Two Statements

OTTAWA (CP)—The Social Credit Association of Canada has issued two separate policy statements on nuclear weapons.

One was issued Feb. 14 in Ottawa and Montreal in both French and English; the other in Edmonton about two weeks ago.

A party spokesman said Friday the statements are identical except for one sentence which appears only in the one issued at Edmonton.

Both versions say Social Credit "pledges that upon election, it will immediately appoint a non-partisan parliamentary defence committee to recommend defence policies in light of secret security information, military requirements and international developments."

The Edmonton statement adds:

"A Social Credit government would approve the adoption of defensive nuclear weapons found to be necessary for the defence of Canada and in conjunction with her allies in the defence of the Western world."

The spokesman said he had no idea why the sentence was added to the Edmonton statement or who had authorized it. He said copies of the Edmonton statement had been shipped to Ottawa for distribution.

Former Vancouver police chief George Archer hinted at a Lions Club luncheon yesterday he has some searching disclosures to make at the end of his investigation of the Victoria police department and implementation of his recommendations will cost money.

Mr. Archer suggested jokingly he might take off on a world tour when the investigation was over.

"I have all the exit routes marked out," he said.

ONE TENTH OF BUDGET

"Police forces cost a lot of money," he said, pointing out the Vancouver force used up one-tenth of the annual civic budget.

"You are looking at the man who spent $6,000,000 a year for six years and didn't leave the country," he said.

Mr. Archer said Victoria has the beginning of a successful police force.

THREE ESSENTIALS
"There are three essentials," he said, "Communications, transportation and manpower in that order."

He said good direction was also necessary and "even some inspiration" is needed.

Other observations made by the former RCMP official were:

"Some of the nicest youngsters I've met are members of the Victoria police department."

"Gripes go with police work."

"You get what you deserve" in police protection.

"A man out on the beat is out of touch. He costs the taxpayer $6,500 a year."

"Police in a good automobile, with training and good communications to keep in touch with headquarters and other beats is a small, self-contained police force all by himself."

"Juvenile crime is a real problem."

"I don't agree that a person under 18 is someone who doesn't know his way around. Observe certain parts of your city on a Friday or Saturday night."

"Let social workers do their work and police do theirs. Police are not social workers and social workers are not policemen."

"The patrol wagon in Victoria hauls the halt, the lame and the wounded. While a policeman is doing this, he's not protecting you."

When asked if he favored legalization of drugs as an answer to cutting down on crime associated with narcotics, Mr. Archer said, "Let's try it."

Archer Hints at Answers

POLICE PLAN COSTLY

Action Taken

The George Archer report on present accommodations of the Victoria police department along with recommendations for improvement now are in the hands of the deputy attorney-general, Mr. Archer told The Daily Colonist last night.

He said he would interview Oak Bay and Esquimalt policemen, discuss jurisdictional areas with the RCMP, interview Saanich police chief W. A. Pearson and inspect facilities at the Saanich police station, winding up his investigation on schedule about April 18.

Van Allen Admits:

Man-Made Killer
Fouls Up Space

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. James Van Allen conceded Friday the artificial radiation belt created by last summer's high-altitude U.S. nuclear test is going to last longer and cause more trouble than he anticipated.

Dr. Van Allen, discoverer of the natural radiation belts which bear his name, said he reversed his field in his running argument with some government scientists about the effects of the blast high over the Pacific.

He said that—in contrast to his earlier estimates of about a year—he now expects the artificial belt to last about 10 years and hopelessly foul up for at least that long experiments aimed at learning the secrets of the Van Allen belts.

But he added he feels the man-created radiation also will constitute a continuing menace to manned flights through the areas of space it occupies.

New Threats Add
To French Chaos

PARIS (Reuters)—A 24-hour rail strike Friday threw France's communications into chaos, adding to the massive labor troubles facing the government—and there was a threat of more work stoppages.

The new threat came as the Communist and Catholic unions joined to call on their members in the country's postal system for a series of 24-hour strikes by sectors.

The postmen have been told to stop work on Thursday, postal office technical workers Friday and financial section staff Saturday.

The Socialist-led union, the third of the major groupings, did not call for the postal strike which is in support of hours and wage demands.

The railroad strike, which began at 4 a.m., affected some 350,000 workers, bringing the number of strikers throughout the country to more than 600,000.

Confident Student Has Walkathon Won

By JURGEN NESSE

A Victoria High School student says he is bound to win the March 30 Colonist 40-mile Walkathon.

Alan Valiant made this self-assured statement after he watched 100 Victoria High School students set out in a five-mile walk which saw 68 finish within the 1½-hour limit, in the interhouse walkathon yesterday.

The 20-year-old student has only walked for five days but already he is near the record established in 1910 for the five-mile walking competition—36 minutes, 37.4 seconds—when he walked 4½ miles in 34 minutes and 55 seconds.

"I won't be able to maintain that pace," he told the Colonist, "and I figure the 50 miles cannot be walked in under 10 hours and 35 minutes."

Second Lieut. Ralph Gustafson of 15th Medium B.C. Artillery Battery announced last night he will start out at 2 a.m. today on his second Colonist Walkathon 50-mile training march 10 miles north of Duncan.

"Last time I walked a mile and ran a mile," he said. "This time I will walk only and hope to do it in 13 hours."

The 18-year-old 2nd Lt. will be accompanied by David Smith, 22, a civilian employee at HMCS Naden.

The inter-house walkathon over one-tenth of the Colonist Walkathon distance of 30 miles saw only 68 students finish out of the original 100.

First across the finish line was John Phillips, with just under one hour's time, followed within 20 yards by Eileen McCammon. Third was Wayne LeMasurier.

The five-mile Victoria High School walkathon was won by

House 1 with 20 walkers, followed by House 4 with 18, and House 2 and 3 who tied with 15 walkers each.

Why did the students try for a school-sponsored walkathon?

"A delegation of students approached me three weeks ago and proposed a 50-mile walkathon to see whether they would be fit to compete in the Colonist Walkathon March 30," said Victoria High School teacher Gordon Hartley who doubles as coach and director of extra-curricular activities at the school.

"But we set our walkathon at five miles. Even then, 32 had to drop out. This points out that preparation for the 50-mile event is necessary," Mr. Hartley added.

"I feel this interest in walking is a very fine thing. If it is carried out sensibly and over a long period of time, it can only result in a benefit for the participant," he added.

Alan Valiant, who has been running for five years and is the captain of the Victoria High School cross-country team, says he gets "a great deal of enjoyment out of walking."

Cowichan Area Eyes '63 Tourist Dollars

DUNCAN — Representatives of the tourist industry in the Cowichan area are forging ahead with plans to hold more tourist dollars here in 1963.

They learned a total of $90,000,000 was left last year on Vancouver Island.

One of the suggestions called for longer opening hours of the local information centre, and tourist operators are in favor of keeping the centre open on weekends during July and August.

Tourist expert for the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce, D. M. Hurley, who chaired the recent meeting of the tourist operators said all recommendations will be studied by the newly formed committee under George Haskins. Out of 30 possible representatives of the tourist trade here 15 attended the meeting and their ranks included motel, hotel, resort operators and proprietors of shops mainly interested in tourism.

It had been last year in its initial presentation.

The two performances Tuesday and Wednesday were relaxed, a feeling which was communicated to the audience who were thus able to enjoy the excellent choral work in the first part of the program, and the remarkable adaptation by Mr. Johnson of the Bible stories, with original music also by Mr. Johnson.

COBBLE HILL — An organization meeting for a local Progressive Conservative Association was held at the Cobble Hill Hall Thursday evening. An all-party meeting at the same Breakdown of the February, 1963, figure consists of: 29 families with 82 dependents; $3,119; 15 single men, $359; 11 single women, $633; one child placed with relatives, $11; two TB cases, $147; and two transients, $430.

NANAIMO — Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Lakey, 2434 Holyrood Drive, were in a two-car collision at Roswell and Terminal at 1:30 a.m. Thursday. Rodrick McDonald, driver of the other car, and Mr. Lakey were injured slightly but not hospitalized. Mrs. Lakey suffered a broken collar bone and five broken ribs and is still in hospital. Damage was estimated at about $800.

DUNCAN — February building permits here decreased from $10,615 during February, 1962 to $3,541 in the same period this year, according to the city office. Two-month total this year is $24,841 and in 1962 it was $37,615.

DUNCAN — Parking his delivery truck with two wheels on the roadway of Government Street cost Victoria driver Ronald Ford $12 when he appeared in police court. Two Cobble Hill men, Frederick Bulcock and Josef L. Chance were fined $15 and $20 respectively for speeding. Crossing a double solid line cost Henry van Shaik of Ladysmith and Vernon Vallacott of Duncan $15 and $12 respectively.

NANAIMO — Harold Hine of Nanaimo and four guests were dunked when the 19-foot outboard pleasure craft in which they were riding was swamped by heavy seas following a squall and sank off the entrance to Departure Bay Wednesday. All occupants were able to scramble ashore in spite of the high winds and waves.

DUNCAN — Social assistance disbursed by the city of Duncan last month increased to $5,223 from $4,702 in February, 1962. In the same period in 1961 it amounted to $4,141.

PORT ALBERNI — Awarding of a contract for dredging the harbor here was announced today from the public works department, Ottawa. Contract, for $14,920, went to McKenzie Barge and Derrick Company, Vancouver.

She moved to the United States and lived there until 1933 when she came to Vancouver, and finally made her home at Duncan. Mrs. Gwilt was a member of the Women's Institute, Baptist Church, Services will be held today at 2 p.m. at the First funeral chapel followed by interment at the family plot, Mount View Cemetery, Somenos.

KYUQUOT — A Goart has been appointed fisheries inspector for the district, replacing T. Carscadden who was transferred about a year ago to a posting in Prince Rupert. Mr. Goart formerly was stationed at Port Alberni.

NANAIMO — Sand-colored water has been flowing from the taps of some Nanaimo residents recently but the cause has been located, water district chief commissioner C. F. Newcombe said Friday. The trouble is being caused by the placing of gravel fill in the north end of Number One Reservoir. The discoloration is expected to clear within the next 48 hours.

"There is no danger to the public," Commissioner Newcombe said.

PORT ALBERNI — A 14-day jail term was given an Alberni man who pleaded guilty to drunken driving before Magistrate W. E. MacLeod Friday morning.

Arik Runar Nase was charged after his car ran into two parked vehicles on Third Avenue S. causing extensive damage.

Police said the driver left the scene but was picked up later and charged.

Robert Johnson, who pleaded guilty to driving without a licence on Sooke Road, was fined $15.

Centre Future Dim?

Backers of a scheme to establish an art centre here still would like to locate in Bastion Square—but they are beginning to wonder if they will not be forced to look elsewhere.

Allan Edwards, spokesman for the group, said yesterday it was city hall officials who suggested this choice of site. "Yet we appear to have been carefully and adroitly manoeuvred out of the old courthouse, and not even given any assurance that we can be located in the Duncan building," he said.

Mr. Edwards said a tour of the Duncan building recently purchased by the city showed it could be renovated for use as a centre for teaching arts and crafts and music.

Of the two buildings, he said, the courthouse is the more suitable accommodation for the needs of the centre but it appears to have been promised to the B.C. Maritime Museum.

"An art centre of the kind we have proposed would be a tremendous asset to the city," said Mr. Edwards. "It could do a great deal for Victoria. We would like to have the centre in Bastion Square, but it doesn't have to go there. We could go back to our original plan of looking elsewhere in the city for a suitable location."

Mr. Edwards added: "We don't want anyone to get the idea that we're begging on bended knees. We're not dying to carry out this project. It's a lot of work and all of us have our own businesses to attend to."

"We are all thinking only in terms of what it would do for the city."

City council Thursday ordered preparation of a complete planning study of the area which would outline future city plans for Bastion Square.

The survey will also contain recommendations as to the use to which various components of the square should be put.

He Had to Be Kidding Says Mayor of Artist

The life-sized painting of a scantily-clad blonde presented to the city yesterday has already been relegated to an attic storeroom. Local painter Albert G. Sterling described it as his own answer to a controversial abstract presented last year by Herbert Steiner, now travelling in Europe on a Canada Council grant. Mayor R. E. Wilson said yesterday the whole thing was "obviously a joke."

Unemployment At 13-Year Low In Duncan Area

DUNCAN—Unemployment here in February, 1963, was the lowest for any February since 1950, R. S. Robinson, manager of the local branch of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, told members of the Winter Works Committee at their last meeting.

Comparing figures, he said 748 people were unemployed last month, the total for January was 910 and the figure for February last year was 781.

PRaise Given
The local branch and the winter works committee were congratulated by the regional employment officer for "good judgment in the implementation of your winter works campaign."

The do-it-now window display contest here was won by Dickinson and Dunn Ltd. and officials noted that although entries were not as numerous as last year, the message did not fail to impress the importance of the campaign on the public.

Also taking part in the contest was the Cheminus-Crofton Chamber of Commerce.

REPORTS
Spokesmen of the different committee groups had this to say in their reports:
North Cowichan Reeve Donald Morton: "More use was made this year of the winter works."

Gordon Berry, city of Duncan: "An average of eight men were employed putting in about 346 man days with an expenditure of $630 per man."

W. Chappell, Lake Cowichan: "Only two men applied for winter works this year."

W. McGuire, Duncan Welfare branch: "Fewer unemployed employables than last year needed assistance."

LOW BID
Will Dobson, Cowichan school trustee: "Most winter works projects are completed and 30 to 40 men were employed at the peak period and in most cases the lowest bid was lower than the board's estimates."

L. W. Larsen, department of Indian affairs said: "The winter employment projects undertaken in the Cowichan agency have been solely under our own community program as none qualified for the winter works."

The projects included clearing of playground areas, road allowances and ditches. Four Indian carpenters worked in this area and a large plumbing project was undertaken at the Malahat employing a Duncan craftsman.

New Link Now Open

New road linking Tolmie Avenue with Topas, here looking north, was opened to traffic for the first time this week. Designed as section of a second entrance roadway to Victoria it now ends abruptly. City plans on spending further $25,000 repaving of Rose Street so that link is extended to Hillside Avenue. There is also a link with Douglas by way of extension of Finlayson. New road will serve Mayfair shopping centre when it opens sometime late this fall.

Student Campaign

Petition Forbidden In High Schools

Victoria high schools have been forbidden to participate in the circulation by university students of a petition calling for increased B.C. government grants for higher education.

John Gough, Greater Victoria schools superintendent, last night said, "We do not agree with student participation in something of political significance."

BACKED BY PRINCIPALS
He said the decision was reached without reference to the school board, but had the backing of high school principals.

Meanwhile, 170 Victoria University students will continue their blitz for signatures in shopping centres, bowling alleys and on downtown street corners today.

DOOR-TO-DOOR BLITZ
The campaign started Thursday night with a door-to-door blitz which resulted in 15,000 citizens signing the petition.

Four University of B.C. undergraduates whose parents live at Campbell River arrived at that town yesterday and were given a warm welcome by school board chairman James Standeven, lawyer J. R. Caldwell and high school principal James Smith.

OFFERED TABLE
Mr. Smith offered the four students—out to gather signatures under the petition—a table at the high school last night when the school drama club presented The Egg and I and a capacity audience was expected.

School Crossing Problem Unsolved in Cowichan

DUNCAN—The problem of unsafe school crossings in the Cowichan school district remains unsolved and a request from the school board to use portable "School Stop" signs was turned down by the department of highways.

Trustees at a meeting this week noted the same request for municipal roads, was granted by North Cowichan municipality.

Officials of the highways department explained that, according to the Motor Vehicle Act no vehicle may pass another at a crosswalk. They also pointed out no-passing lines are unnecessary because of that ruling. Copies of the department letter will be sent to the B.C. School Trustees Association.

In search of a new school site, the Cowichan school board has been offered two.

SITES NAMED
One is adjacent to Tansor School, comprising two acres, and the second is the eight-acre property at Wharmcliffe Road belonging to the local cricket and sports club. The assessed value of the former is $700 and of the latter $10,800.

The management committee will bring in its findings at the next board meeting.

TENDERS NOTED
The lowest bid on a music room at Cowichan Senior Secondary School, $6,239 from Cowichan Construction Co., was accepted. Other tenders were submitted by William Burak, $6,870; W. G. Brownsey, $6,378; Duncan Construction Co., $6,807, and Herb Bates, $6,580.

The board decided to streamline procedures concerning teachers' applications and in an emergency, applications can be accepted by the management committee and the superintendent.

MIGHT KEEP
Formerly all applications were studied by the board; trustee Wilf Peck felt the new method might keep excellent teachers in this district.

Praising the work done by the PTA in connection with the Cowichan Music Festival, Mrs. Isabel Tarlton announced another concert will be held March 29 with students of public and private schools performing. She hopes some money can be raised at this event toward a grand piano.

Mrs. Tarlton also commended the Duncan Kiwanis Club on its forthcoming Career Guidance Night April 5 and said this event is most helpful for youngsters in planning their future.

The board decided to give $75 toward the Career Guidance Night.

Canadian Fighters Will Do

NANAIMO—Conservative candidate W. F. Mathews said here Thursday the Voodoo and Starfighter aircraft are adequate defence weapons for Canada with conventional arms.

Mr. Mathews, speaking at a four-party political debate, said Mr. Diefenbaker has never been in favor of nuclear arms and that the government never had any commitment to accept nuclear warheads.

Liberal candidate Doug Green said both the Voodoos and the Starfighters were "obsolete before their purchase."

"Nuclear defence today is only the equivalent of the rifle and bullet of yesterday," he said. "We either get this or we have no defence and cut ourselves off from our allies."

Douglas Dane, Social Credit candidate, stated: "We want peace. This question of disarmament is a world wide question. It is not just a Canadian problem. Whether we like it or not, the nuclear age is here to stay."

Colin Cameron, NDP candidate said flatly that "no political ideologies can justify the evil of nuclear weapons."

Genge Heads Planning Unit

James Genge has been appointed chairman of the city's advisory planning committee for 1963. He succeeds A. J. Saunders. Honorary chairman is Maj. H. C. Holmes; Col. J. R. Kingham and E. W. Arnott were appointed vice-chairmen.

Prose Runners-up

Runner up in the prose selection 16 and under was C. H. R. Tupper, who reached 81 points to take awarded the Fletcher's Music Co. trophy.

The Duncan United Church Explorers placed second with 80 points in the Campfire group for ages 8-12. Runner-up in the folk song section was the Tansor School with 81 points.

In the open prose class Elizabeth Hyndman won a pin with 84 points, followed by Pam Smith, 87 and Cheryl Kerwin, 84.

Cowichan Music Festival trophies in the choral and instrument class were awarded to: Kuper Island Residential school with 80 points in the junior high school band class; Lake Cowichan Cubs, 85, Campfire group; Cliffside Preparatory school, 82, in the folk song class. The 2nd Cowichan Girl Guide Company earned the Dobson's Ltd. trophy with 81 points in the Campfire class ages 12-17.

The Walder Brenner trophy went to the Quamichan Junior High School girls' Choir which won 84 points in the choir section and the open band class was won by the RCSCC Cougar band who with 81 points to take awarded the Fletcher's Music Co. trophy.

Car, Garage Demolished

A Victoria man, Robert Ash, 2315 Fernwood, escaped injury when his car went out of control at Saseenos yesterday, left the road and crashed into a garage, demolishing both car and garage.

The garage is owned by Mr. and Mrs. P. Paskin, police said.

A woman pedestrian was treated and released at St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday after an accident at Fort and Blanshard.

Mrs. Marie Runowski, 42, of 827 Vancouver, was crossing Fort Street when the accident occurred about 8:15 a.m. She suffered bruises to hip and wrist.

Driver of the car was Linda Krebbes, 34 Olympia, police said.

Flying from Europe To Sing at Empress

Remember how Victoria people thrilled to the unforgettable singing and dancing of the Mexican troupe at the Empress Hotel last December 6.

Many commented that Victoria needed more of this high-class entertainment. They felt outstanding talent was good for the city.

Now International Festival, an all-star show featuring top acts from Spain, Portugal and Italy will be flown to Canada by Canadian Pacific Airlines and seen in a three-night stop at the Empress hotel, March 25, 26 and 27.

The first two nights will be in the form of a cabaret dancing plus the imported entertainment and the third night will be a special dinner, dancing and entertainment in the hotel's Crystal ballroom.

The show includes Rui Mascarenhas, son of an army general, and winner of the festival of Latin songs at the Cannes festival. In Paris night spots, he commands $600 nightly. He will sing modern songs in five languages.

The beautiful Nina Silvana, singing star of Italian musical comedies and films will share the entertainment spotlight.

The stunning red-haired singer started her brilliant career as a wide-eyed youngster studying operatic singing in Rome. She soon gave up the trills and cadenzas of Verdi and at 17 years of age went "pop." She skyrocketed into leading nightclubs of Italy and the United States, appearing in some of the more important places in New York, Chicago and Miami, as well as starting in musical comedies across Europe. She'll sing all the Italian favorites, a medley in English and French and Spanish and American tunes in Italian including Mack the Knife. She is a lyric soprano. Supporting these international famous song birds will be the Trio Albeniz, Sylvia Ros, Carmen Rollan and Graziella Vazquez who have toured Europe with the Spanish ballet of Antonio. They have performed for Queen Elizabeth, Queen Victoria of Spain and the Prince and Princess of Monaco.

As a trio they have won first prize of choreographic performance in Spain and all three have the Spanish bacalaureate.

NINA SILVANA... Italian singing star.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Rose of 3126 Balfour Avenue wish to announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Jacqueline Cheryl, to Mr. James Edward Chaplin, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Chaplin of 1058 Summit Avenue. Wedding will take place on May 4 in Centennial United Church at 7:30 p.m. with Dr. S. Parsons officiating.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I am going with a fine boy who has asked me to marry him. I love many things about Jake. He is kind, considerate, dependable, honest and fun to be with. But his family bugs me.

About once a week we have to go to a relative's house. He has an enormous mob of sisters, brothers, aunts, uncles and cousins. Somebody is always having something for everybody.

Much of the conversation, even among the American-born relatives, is in a foreign language which I don't understand. When they do speak English the conversation concerns people and events which have no meaning to me.

I try to be pleasant and act interested but it's a terrific strain. I feel as if I've shovelled a ton of coal after I've put in an evening with his family.

Should I tell him how I feel now or try to wean him away from them after we are married? The guy is too good to give up. Help!—NAN.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband passed away several months ago. He used to drive me every place so I never learned how to drive. I now have a good car sitting in the garage.

I belong to a card club which meets twice a week. Three of the girls who belong to the club live in my neighborhood. They used to pick me up and we'd go to the meetings together. But now they leave their cars in the garage and offer to drive me.

Do you think they should buy gasoline for my car? Not one of them has mentioned it. I have the feeling they are taking advantage of me because I'm better off financially than they are. Do you agree?

LOW TANK

Dear Low: If you know how to drive you'd be using your car anyway, wouldn't you? So what's the difference? The few pennies involved are hardly worth mentioning. And here is some added advice: Learn how to drive the car or get rid of it—or you will be faced with a continuing headache.

Confidential to Black Friday: Same tired plot—just different players. Married man fiddling around, no intention of leaving his family, but reluctant to get out of the orchestra. Get with it, Lady, before you qualify for membership in the "Old Too Soon, Smart Too Late Club."

ST. MARY'S
St. Mary's evening women's auxiliary will meet Tuesday, March 19, at 8 p.m. in the church hall, Yale Street.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mr. Avery F. Peterson, consul-general for the United States in Vancouver, will pay an official call on the Lieutenant-Governor on Monday. The following day His Honor and Mrs. Pearkes will give a dinner at Government House in honor of Major-General Cameron B. Ware, DSO, CD, honorary colonel of the PPCLI. On Wednesday, Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Pearkes will attend the dedication and opening of the new parish hall, St. Martin-in-the-Field, Obed Avenue.

Visiting En Route

Mrs. R. L. Challoner, 1663 Rockland, has as a guest, Mrs. H. C. Andrew of Calgary who is en route home after spending seven weeks in Honolulu. Mrs. Andrew, a former Victorian, will spend several weeks here.

Swallows Land At Fulford For Breakfast

FULFORD — The swallows have arrived in Fulford. They flew in on Tuesday, March 12, and were here in time for breakfast. Also the white robin has been seen several times in the valley.

Heather in Bouquet Sent from Scotland

Margaret Shearer Faulds chose a full-length gown of white corded silk, for her marriage Friday night to Mr. William Ashton Hodgson, which took place in First United Church.

The elegant gown featured a sweet neckline trimmed with heavy embroidered lace. Lace was also at the waistline and flowed to a slight train. In her bouquet of pink rosebuds was a sprig of heather and blue tartan ribbon, sent by relatives in Scotland. Her net finger-tip veil misted from a tangle of rhinestones and her single strand of pearls was a gift of the groom.

Rev. R. McElroy Thompson officiated for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Faulds, Oaklands Avenue, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hodgson, Savannah Street. Baskets of daffodils and white freesias were on the altar. The bride's brother, Mr. R. Faulds, sang "Bless This House."

Maid of honor, Miss Sherrin Molyard, wore a soft blue nylon chiffon over taffeta gown, with short lace jacket and toning accessories. She wore a blue floral whimsy and carried white carnations.

Miss Bonnie Hodgson, Miss Barbara Hodgson and Miss Carol Thompson, bridesmaids, were gowned in pale blue nylon chiffon. Their accessories were white and they wore blue satin pill boxes. Their flowers were white carnations.

Mr. Robert Faulds was best man and Mr. James Moody, Mr. Robert Hodgson and Mr. Ronald Stewart ushered guests to pews marked with white carnations and fern.

The bride and groom were piped from the church by members of the Canadian Scottish band. White freesias decorated the head table at the reception in Hollywood House. The groom's mother baked the wedding cake. The bride gave the sprig of heather from her bouquet to her paternal grandmother, Mr. William Jobson proposed the toast.

The new Mrs. Hodgson changed to a beige suit of polished linen for the honeymoon to the Okanagan and Vancouver. Her accessories were yellow and the corsage was gardenias. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Hodgson will make their home at Garden Park Court, Lovat Avenue.

Israelite Convictions Impress Miss Fosberg

By JULIE CLARK

After visiting Israel twice in recent years, Rev. Nancy Forsberg, an ordained Congregational Christian minister from New Jersey, decided to devote her time to lecturing on this country of 2,500,000 souls, 90 per cent of whom are Jewish.

Miss Forsberg leaves Victoria this morning to continue her Canadian tour before returning to the United States. At present she is sponsored by the Hadasah Wizo Organization of Canada. In the city she spoke to the local Hadasah group on her topic, "Youth Aliyah."

"Aliyah," she explains, "started as an organization in Germany to help the Jewish children, to take them to the Holy Land, away from persecution."

There, they are educated and given vocational training under Aliyah auspices.

"After their training they are assigned to villages and communal kibbutzim. The handicapped are sent to special institutions."

Miss Forsberg, who gave up a life as newspaper reporter, turned to the ministry nearly 12 years ago.

At present she is executive secretary of New Jersey Christian Palestine Association, minister of the Italian Presbyterian Church at Newark, and free lance lecturer.

Her first trip to the Holy Land, in 1957, so inspired her that she returned alone in 1960. Her first journey was with college presidents, newspaper men and clergymen.

"I worked in a laundry and picked apples to keep myself there and also to meet the people," she continues. "I lived with families, who had come from all over the world, in order to see how they were adjusting to their new country."

During her two-month stay in Israel, Miss Forsberg studied the health and youth programs, education, agriculture, desert research, archeology and religious communities.

She observed curative and preventive medical programs to stamp out trachoma and the methods of irrigation to reclaim the desert regions. Since two thirds of Israel is desert, even the night dew is being used to make land productive.

"The people are imbued with a feeling that this land should be productive again; it should be brought back to life," Rev. Forsberg says.

But this dedicated young woman not only met the working force, she had an interview with Prime Minister David Ben Gurion and other top officials.

The Israelites' belief, or rather conviction, that every human life has dignity and value, most impressed Miss Forsberg.

Art in Square

Centre Future Dim?

Backers of a scheme to establish an art centre here still would like to locate in Bastion Square—but they are beginning to wonder if they will not be forced to look elsewhere.

Allan Edwards, spokesman for the group, said yesterday it was city hall officials who suggested this choice of site. "Yet we appear to have been carefully and adroitly manoeuvred out of the old courthouse, and not even given any assurance that we can be located in the Duncan building," he said.

Mr. Edwards said a tour of the Duncan building recently purchased by the city showed it could be renovated for use as a centre for teaching arts and crafts and music.

Of the two buildings, he said, the courthouse is the more suitable accommodation for the needs of the centre but it appears to have been promised to the B.C. Maritime Museum.

"An art centre of the kind we have proposed would be a tremendous asset to the city," said Mr. Edwards. "It could do a great deal for Victoria. We would like to have the centre in Bastion Square, but it doesn't have to go there. We could go back to our original plan of looking elsewhere in the city for a suitable location."

Mr. Edwards added: "We don't want anyone to get the idea that we're begging on bended knees. We're not trying to carry out this project. It's a lot of work and all of us have our own businesses to attend to. We are all thinking only in terms of what it would do for the city."

City council Thursday ordered preparation of a complete planning study of the area which would outline future city plans for Bastion Square.

The survey will also contain recommendations as to the use to which various components of the square should be put.

He Had to Be Kidding Says Mayor of Artist

The life-sized painting of a scantily-clad blonde presented to the city yesterday has already been relegated to an attic storeroom. Local painter Albert G. Stierling described it as his own answer to a controversial abstract presented last year by Herbert Siebner, now travelling in Europe on a Canada Council grant. Mayor R. B. Wilson said yesterday the whole thing was "obviously a joke."

Bizarre Story Unfolds

Tin of Arsenic Left by His Bed

By BOB PETHICK

Keith Gordon Thorner, 57, of 961 Darwin, died of arsenic poison administered by an unknown hand, a coroner's jury ruled last night.

Verdict at the inquest into Mr. Thorner's death Feb. 3 at St. Joseph's Hospital was that death was caused by arsenic poisoning administered by person or persons unknown.

The victim died shortly after being rushed to hospital from his home.

During the inquest at Hay ward's funeral home, Thorner's widow, Pearl Anne Thorner, dressed in black, tearfully described the bizarre circumstances surrounding the death.

Mrs. Thorner testified under protection of the Canada Evidence Act and broke down frequently during the long questioning period.

She told the jury she and her husband had gone to the Drake Hotel in the late afternoon and had some beer. During the time they were there Thorner asked his wife to invite an Indian girl, sitting at a table by herself, to have a drink with them.

They were later joined by Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn West, 753 Market, and all decided to go to the Thorner home for some food. During the trip Mrs. Thorner stopped twice, at the liquor store to purchase a bottle of gin and a dozen beer, and at a food store.

The Indian girl, Adeline Suzanne Morris of Brentwood Indian Reserve, was sitting in the front seat with Mr. Thorner while Mrs. Thorner got out to do the shopping.

The couple lost the Wests on the way. They were following in their own car.

Mrs. Thorner told the jury the three of them sat around the house and her husband suggested they ask Miss Morris to stay with them as there was no way for her to get home.

"I told her to have a bath because I felt she was dirty," Mrs. Thorner testified in answer to questions from Saanich crown prosecutor Kenneth Murphy.

She said the girl had gone into the bedroom, then Mrs. Thorner had a bath.

Then Went to Think

After Mrs. Thorner had her bath, she went into the bedroom and found her husband making love to the Indian girl, she testified. She said she left the room and went into the kitchen to think.

Later, she said, Mr. Thorner entered the kitchen, took a tin from the lower cupboard and put it on the counter top.

"I wanted to talk to him about seeing a doctor," Mrs. Thorner said. "I told him if he wouldn't, I would leave him."

She said he had attempted suicide on one occasion.

Her husband indicated the can and told her that was the only way out, she testified.

She said she did not know what was in the can.

Mr. Thorner then returned to the bedroom.

Mrs. Thorner testified that after some time she picked up the tin, then went into the bedroom.

She told her husband: "All right, let's get it over with," and handed him the tin.

"He put it on the floor," she said.

Mrs. Thorner said her husband pulled her down on the bed.

"I got sick and left," she said.

Mrs. Thorner said that after a time she didn't know how long as the clock had stopped her husband came back out into the living room.

"I was trying to talk to him. I asked him not to drink any more. He said 'Don't worry, that was my last drink.'"

She said she went into the bedroom to tell the girl to get out and when she came out her husband was in the bathroom being sick. She said she heard him retching.

He said: "I'm dying," Mrs. Thorner testified.

Neighbors Phoned

She sent her young daughter to phone for a doctor and ambulance but she was unable to raise the neighbors. Mrs. Thorner then woke up some other neighbors and they phoned for the ambulance.

She said her husband was covered in a cold sweat and she tried to wipe him off. Mr. Thorner had fallen on the floor by this time. He said: "Poison, don't tell," Mrs. Thorner testified.

Mrs. Thorner said the tin was on the bedroom floor where she said, her husband put it.

She was shown a tin and said: "I thought it was greener than that."

Then she said: "I guess that's the one."

She said her husband had at one time left the house to get some wood.

Mrs. Thorner said she took the tin and put it back in the cupboard.

Found in Fire Areas

He was asked if the arsenic found in Mr. Thorner constituted a lethal dose.

"Yes sir, very much so," he replied.

Arsenic was found in the stomach, brain, kidney, liver and hair, Mr. Rideout testified.

Miss Morris testified she took a bath and went to bed. Mrs. Thorner told her where to sleep, she said.

Mr. Thorner came in and kissed her but she asked him to stop and he did.

She said Mrs. Thorner came in later and she believed the Thorners made love.

Mr. West said he followed the Thorners in his own car. He said Mr. Thorner appeared to be trying to kiss Miss Morris, who he called "Suzy." He said Mr. Thorner appeared unfriendly to him when they were in the hotel.

In her testimony Mrs. Thorner told Dr. J. H. Moore and the jury how Mr. Thorner had become unemployed. She said he last worked at Yarrows Ltd. but had quit because the men there were saying mean things about him, such as he didn't know what he was doing or he buttered up the boss.

She told the jury he often became depressed and would tell their two children that sometime they were going to have to get along without him.

Once when they were out gathering mushrooms Mr. Thorner picked a poisonous mushroom plant, then brought it home and started to cook it.

"I asked him what he was doing that for. He said it was as good a way as any. I threw it out."

Planning to be married today are Mrs. Mary Wallace, 81, and Robert Cook, 85, who met in Victoria in December after not seeing each other for 62 years. They worked together on a farm in Manitoba around the turn of the century when both were young.

After 62 Years

Meet Again Wed Today

A Victoria couple who met three months ago after a separation of 62 years will be married today.

Mary Provo and Robert Cook met in 1898 when they were teenagers working on a farm in Manitoba. Both got married—to someone else—within a few days of each other, when Mary was almost 17 and Robert was 22.

NET BOXING DAY That was the last they saw of each other until Boxing Day, 1962.

Now Mary, Mrs. Mary Wallace, 81, is a widow with 10 children, 39 grandchildren and 63 great-grandchildren.

Mr. Cook, 85, is a widower with three children, four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

They got together after mutual friends told Mr. Cook that Mrs. Wallace was living in Victoria.

"As soon as he found out I was here he said 'I'll find her,'" said Mrs. Wallace. "He was the first to suggest we get married but I guess we both had the notion right away."

PERKED UP "He was pretty lonely ever since his wife died, but our friends say he's perked up quite a bit since we met," she said.

"He says now he should have married me when we first met, but he was always a shy boy."

Up-Island Shelter

Underground 'Rest' Ended by Soldiers

More than 200 soldiers have emerged from a fairly luxurious sojourn underground testing a civil defence shelter near Nanaimo.

Soldiers of the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, and senior officials of the crown company Defence Construction Industries—220 persons in all—spent about 28 hours in the shelter.

REPORTED ACCEPTED Purpose of the test was to check and adjust air conditioning and other mechanically operated equipment of the huge shelter. It was reported the bunker was accepted by the army after the tests.

Most of those involved were in the bunker from late Wednesday morning to about 2 p.m. Thursday, but an advance party of 40 had entered Monday morning.

Soldiers reported the time passed quickly and there was no claustrophobia. Better-than-average food prepared by PCLDI chefs included steaks, roast beef and Chinese food.

The bunker is equipped with a kitchen and cafeteria, as well as its own power and sewage plants, and could run as long as supplies lasted.

DOUBLE BUNKS Sleeping is dormitory-style, with rooms accommodating six to eight persons in double bunks.

The air conditioning is adjusted to compensate for the dissipation of body heat.

The bunker is designed for emergency use by senior government officials. Although there is little combustible material in it, zones can be shut off in case of fire.

70 Here to Enter Continental Bridge

About 70 Victoria bridge players will join 25,000 players throughout Canada and the United States Wednesday in the second continent-wide tournament sponsored by the American Contract Bridge League.

Victoria players will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the Elks Hall, 732 Cormorant to receive standard bridge hands which have been pre-dealt, by the league, sealed in envelopes and sent to Victoria.

Proceeds of the tournament in Canada will go to the Canadian National Multiple Sclerosis Society. Winners will be determined by match point.

Results will be mailed to Los Angeles.

Central Junior Stage For Sacred Leader

Social Credit national leader Robert Thompson will speak at 8:15 p.m. March 26 in Central Junior High School auditorium.

One or more B.C. cabinet ministers are expected to be on hand.

Mr. Thompson's speech was originally scheduled for the same time at a different place.

New Link Now Open

New road linking Tolmie Avenue with Topas, here looking north, was opened to traffic for the first time this week. Designed as section of a second entrance roadway to Victoria it now ends abruptly. City plans on spending further $25,000 repaving of Rose Street so that link is extended to Hillside Avenue. There is also a link with Douglas by way of extension of Finlayson. New road will serve Mayfair shopping centre when it opens sometime late this fall.

For Student Leader

Ovation at Varsity

Outgoing Victoria University student council president Alf Pettersen Friday night received a standing ovation for the way he handled the current students' campaign for signatures under a petition for more government financial support.

The applause was suggested by student council president-elect Larry Devlin during the passing of the gavel ceremony at the university's annual awards banquet and dance at Club Sirocco.

Student council president's award for the student who has contributed most to college life went to Lorne Priestley in recognition of his work as special events chairman and as co-ordinator of the action committee.

Tin Pot Uophy went to Terry Matte, news editor of the university's newspaper, The Martlet, for the greatest contribution to college life through the medium of the printed word.

Wayne Hendry walked away with the Martlet award, given to the best sportsman.

TROPHY NOT WON Some students came close to, but no one was found worthy of the Maycock trophy, awarded for what amounts to the best student prank of the year.

Pharates, a girls' service club, and the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship split honors for the Most Active Club trophy.

Women Injured In City Mishap

A woman pedestrian was treated and released at St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday after an accident at Fort and Blanshard.

Mrs. Marie Runowski, 42, of 827 Vancouver, was crossing Fort Street when the accident occurred about 8:15 a.m. She suffered bruises to hip and wrist.

Driver of the car was Linda Krebs, 34 Olympia.

Student Campaign

Petition Forbidden In High Schools

Victoria high schools have been forbidden to participate in the circulation by university students of a petition calling for increased B.C. government grants for higher education.

John Gough, Greater Victoria schools superintendent, last night said: "We do not agree with student participation in something of political significance."

BACKED BY PRINCIPALS He said the decision was reached without reference to the school board, but had the backing of high school principals.

Meanwhile, 170 Victoria University students will continue their blitz for signatures in shopping centres, bowling alleys and on downtown street corners today.

DOOR-TO-DOOR BLITZ The campaign started Thursday night with a door-to-door blitz which resulted in 15,000 citizens signing the petition.

Four University of B.C. undergraduates whose parents live at Campbell River arrived at that town yesterday and were given a warm welcome by school board chairman James Standeven, lawyer J. R. Caldwell and high school principal James Smith.

OFFERED TABLE Mr. Smith offered the four students—out to gather signatures under the petition—a table at the high school last night when the school drama club presented The Egg and a capacity audience was expected.

Bolivia

Plane, 39 Missing

LA PAZ (UPI)—A Bolivian airliner carrying 39 persons including two Americans disappeared Friday on a flight from Chile to La Paz, according to airline officials here.

They said the Lloyd Aero Boliviano DC-6 took off from Arica, near Chile's northern border, and should have completed the 600-mile hop to Bolivia's capital by 12:27 p.m. local time. It was still missing seven hours later.

Officials here said Arica's control tower reported the DC-6 made a perfect takeoff. Its flight path included crossing the Andes at 19,000 feet.

A Panagra Airlines plane reported sighting the DC-6 heading due west, toward the Pacific Ocean, instead of on the generally northeasterly course that would have taken it to La Paz, officials said.

33 Escape

Iran Crash Kills Four

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI)—A Trans Mediterranean Airways freighter bound for Beirut from Tehran crashed Friday seven miles southeast of Karaj and all four crewmen were killed.

Authorities said the plane took off from Tehran airport but immediately lost radio contact with the airport tower. Karaj is 24 miles west of Tehran.

Agents Charged For Kidnap Bid

BERN, Switzerland (AP)—The Swiss government said Friday two Israeli agents have been arrested by Swiss police for trying to kidnap a West German missile scientist working for the United Arab Republic.

A government announcement described the agents as an Austrian and an Israeli citizen, but did not otherwise identify them.

STERLING SYSTEMS

Informed sources said the case was connected with an attempt to kidnap Dr. Hans Kleinwachter, a West German scientist conducting research on electronic steering systems for missiles on behalf of the United Arab Republic's defence ministry.

Noisy Guests 'Shut Up'

MELBOURNE, Australia (Reuters)—Chattering guests at a luncheon here Friday for touring Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip were shocked into silence by a shout of "shut up."

The man who shouted, Col. Lionel Rose explained, "I felt something had to be done to stop the mob from drinking and talking."

The guests had ignored an official who rose to propose a toast to the Queen.

Rose said the Queen's private secretary, Sir Michael Adeane, turned to him after he shouted and said "good on you old boy," a typically Australian expression.

After the shout the Queen glanced at Rose, a colorful and controversial figure in this remote town in the heart of the Australian desert. She showed no expression.

Alberni Chieftains in Final

VANCOUVER — Alberni Chieftains will play Mennonite Educational Institute of Clearbrook Saturday night for the B.C. high school basketball championship.

Chieftains reached the final last night by defeating North Surrey, 60-47, while MEL outscored Queen Elizabeth of Surrey, 62-30.

Courtenay Towhees advanced to the final of the consolation round by defeating Nanaimo Hubsters, 48-42, and will play Vancouver College for fourth place. (See story, Page 8.)

CITY POLICE COSTS WILL CLIMB--ARCHER

By DON GAIN

Former Vancouver police chief George Archer hinted at a Lions Club luncheon yesterday he has some searching disclosures to make at the end of his investigation of the Victoria police department and implementation of his recommendations will cost money.

Mr. Archer suggested jokingly he might take off on a world tour when the investigation was over.

"I have all the exit routes marked out," he said.

ONE TENTH OF BUDGET

"Police forces cost a lot of money," he said, pointing out the Vancouver force used up one-tenth of the annual civic budget.

"You are looking at the man who spent $6,000,000 a year for six years and didn't leave the country," he said.

Mr. Archer said Victoria has the beginning of a successful police force.

THREE ESSENTIALS

"There are three essentials," he said. "Communications, transportation and manpower in that order."

He said good direction was also necessary and "even some inspiration" is needed.

Other observations made by the former RCMP official were:

• "Some of the newest youngsters I've met are members of the Victoria police department."

• "Gripes go with police work."

• "You get what you deserve" in police protection.

• "A man out on the beat is out of touch. He costs the taxpayer $6,500 a year."

• "Policeman in a good automobile, with training and good communications to keep in touch with headquarters and other beats is a small, self-contained police force all by himself."

• "Juvenile crime is a real problem."

• "I don't agree that a person under 18 is someone who doesn't know his way around. Observe certain parts of your city on a Friday or Saturday night."

• "Let social workers do their work and police do theirs. Police are not social workers and social workers are not policemen."

• "The patrol wagon in Victoria hauls the halt, the lame and the wounded. While a policeman is doing this, he's not protecting you."

When asked if he favored legalization of drugs as an answer to cutting down on crime associated with narcotics, Mr. Archer said, "Let's try it."

Action Taken

The George Archer report on present accommodations of the Victoria police department along with recommendations for improvement now are in the hands of the deputy attorney-general, Mr. Archer told The Daily Colonist last night.

He said he would interview Oak Bay and Esquimalt policemen, discuss jurisdictional areas with the RCMP, interview Saanich police chief W. A. Pearson and inspect facilities at the Saanich police station, winding up his investigation on schedule about April 18.

Charge!

Van Allen Admits:

Man-Made Killer Fouls Up Space

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. James Van Allen conceded Friday the artificial radiation belt created by last summer's high-altitude U.S. nuclear test is going to last longer and cause more trouble than he anticipated.

Dr. Van Allen, discoverer of the natural radiation belts which bear his name, testified reversed his field in his running argument with some government scientists about the effects of the blast high over the Pacific.

He said that—in contrast to his earlier estimates of about a year—he now expects the artificial belt to last about 10 years and hopelessly foul up for at least that long experiments aimed at learning the secrets of the Van Allen belts.

But he added he feels the man-made radiation also will constitute a continuing menace to manned flights through the areas of space it occupies.

Pearson Pushes Pension Plan

Three persons were taken to St. Joseph's hospital last night after a car was in a head-on collision with a loaded truck on Mulahat. Arnold Mason, Shawigan Lake, lone occupant of car, was reported in fair condition with a number of fractures and cuts. Mr. and Mrs. George Hensworth, Roydon, were both in good condition in hospital. BARRIE, Ont. (CP)—A new contributory pension plan has top priority in the Liberal party's April 8 election platform. Liberal Leader Pearson said Friday night.

"It has this priority because it is necessary and desirable in itself and because it involves no added drain on the revenues of the federal government," he said.

It would be added to the existing old age pension which he said the Liberals had introduced in 1951.

Further, workers should be able to retain rights on their contributions when they change jobs, he said.

Mr. Pearson spoke to a crowd of about 900 in the school auditorium.

Mr. Pearson said he didn't think the Progressive Conservatives from Prime Minister Diefenbaker on down were inviting the kind of searching public inquiry necessary at this time. They preferred "emotion, smoke screens, excitement and drama."

Truth Squad On Way Out?

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says the Liberal party's "truth squad" will disappear, probably this weekend, under orders of national leader Lester Pearson.

HALIFAX (CP)—The Liberal party's "truth squad" asked for and received police protection at a Progressive Conservative rally addressed by Prime Minister Diefenbaker here Friday night.

Socreds Issue Two Statements

OTTAWA (CP)—The Social Credit Association of Canada has issued two separate policy statements on nuclear weapons.

One was issued Feb. 14 in Ottawa and Montreal in both French and English; the other in Edmonton about two weeks ago.

A party spokesman said Friday the statements are identical except for one sentence which appears only in the one issued at Edmonton.

Both versions say Social Credit "pledges that upon election, it will immediately appoint a non-partisan parliamentary defence committee to recommend defence policies in light of secret security information, military requirements and international developments."

The Edmonton statement adds:

"A Social Credit government would approve the adoption of defensive nuclear weapons found to be necessary for the defence of Canada and in conjunction with her allies in the defence of the Western world."

The spokesman said he had no idea why the sentence was added to the Edmonton statement or who had authorized it.

He said copies of the Edmonton statement had been shipped to Ottawa for distribution.

Union Arab Choice

CAIRO (AP)—President Nasser of the United Arab Republic and envoys from Iraq and Syria agreed Friday night after hours of negotiation to form a united three-power Arab nation, a reliable source reported.

The new union would amount to a federation of the three Arab states, with each retaining its identity but under some form of central government with one chief executive.

New Threats Add To French Chaos

PARIS (Reuters)—A 24-hour rail strike Friday threw France's communications into chaos, adding to the massive labor troubles facing the government—and there was a threat of more work stoppages.

The new threat came as the Communist and Catholic unions joined to call on their members in the country's postal system for a series of 24-hour strikes by sectors.

The postmen have been told to stop work on Thursday, post office technical workers Friday and financial section staff Saturday.

The Socialist-led union, the third of the major groupings, did not call for the postal strike which is in support of hours and wage demands. The railroad strike, which began at 4 a.m., affected some 350,000 workers, bringing the number of strikers throughout the country to more than 600,000.

Confident Student Has Walkathon Won

By JURGEN HESSE

A Victoria High School student says he is bound to win the March 30 Colonist 40-mile Walkathon.

Alan Valiant made this self-assured statement after he watched 100 Victoria High School students set out in a five-mile walk which saw 68 finish within the 1½-hour limit, in the interhouse walkathon yesterday.

The 20-year-old student has only walked for five days but already he is near the record established in 1910 for the five-mile walking competition—16 minutes, 37.1 seconds—when he walked 1½ miles in 34 minutes and 55 seconds.

"I won't be able to maintain that pace," he told the Colonist, "and I figure the 50 miles cannot be walked in under 10 hours and 35 minutes."

Second Lieut. Ralph Gustafson of 15th Medium B.C. Artillery Battery announced last night he will start out at 2 a.m. today on his second Colonist Walkathon 50-mile training march 10 miles north of Duncan.

"Last time I walked a mile and ran a mile," he said. "This time I will walk only and hope to do it in 13 hours."

The 18-year-old 2nd Lt. will be accompanied by David Smith, 22, a civilian employee at HMCS Naden.

The inter-house walkathon over one-tenth of the Colonist Walkathon distance of 50 miles saw only 68 students finish out of the original 100.

First across the finish line was John Phillips, with just under one hour's time, followed within 20 yards by Eileen MacCammion. Third was Wayne LeMasurier.

The five-mile Victoria High School walkathon was won by

House 1 with 20 walkers, followed by House 1 with 18 and House 2 and 3 who tied with 15 walkers each.

Why did the students try for a school-sponsored walkathon?

"A delegation of students approached me three weeks ago and proposed a 50-mile walkathon to see whether they would be fit to compete in the Colonist Walkathon March 30," said Victoria High School teacher Gordon Hartley who doubles as coach and director of extra-curricular activities at the school.

"But we set our walkathon at five miles. Even then, 32 had to drop out. This points out that preparation for the 50-mile event is necessary."

Mr. Hartley added, "I feel this interest in walking is a very fine thing. If it is carried out sensibly and over a long period of time, it can only result in a benefit for the participant," he added.

Alan Valiant, who has been running for five years and is the captain of the Victoria High School cross-country team, says he gets "a great deal of enjoyment out of walking."

"What I need now is a coach

who can tell me whether my walking style is right," he added.

He plans to take a break every 10 miles with a rub-down and a sip from his secret concoction, intended to bring quick energy to his body and muscles.

Alan is worried about one thing—what to do with the $100 first prize for the Colonist Walkathon overall winner. His coach, Mr. Hartley, gave him a tip:

"You can donate it to a charitable organization."

Why the concern? Alan was worried about losing his amateur status.
